Nixon may reveal end of embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will hold a nationally televised and broadcast news conference at 7:30 p.m. EDT today, the White House announced.

Timing of the surprise news conference — Nixon's second in nine days — heightened speculation the President would announce steps toward ending the Arab oil embargo.

But Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, in announcing the East Room session with reporters, said: "I cannot predict whether the President will have an announcement this evening."

Nixon often opens his news conferences with major announcements, and tonight's session was scheduled amid reports that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger brought back from the Middle East this week assurances that the embargo would soon be lifted.

The news conference also comes amid a flurry of developments in the Watergate case.

The President informed the House Judiciary Committee he will give it all the material he already has turned over to the Watergate grand jury "without limitation."

Boy, 13, dies of injuries from scuffle at school

Danny Keith Kersey, 13 - year - old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kersey, Route Four, died Tuesday afternoon of head injuries he received in a scuffle at Sikeston Junior High School, where he was an eighth grade student.

Young Kersey died in an ambulance en route to a Memphis hospital.

Principal W. L. "Buddy" Clayton said the incident occurred about 2 p.m. in the gymnasium prior to the start of the sixth hour physical education class.

Clayton said he was still checking with students to find out exactly what happened, but that the incident appears to have been a case of horseplay between students. Apparently, it was a shoving match "like kids do," Clayton said.

He said another student shoved Kersey, who fell to the floor and struck his head.

After receiving the blow to his head, Kersey went to see the school nurse, who examined him and could find nothing wrong, Clayton said. Kersey then asked to go back to class and the nurse permitted him to do so.

When he got back to class, Clayton said he again looked sick and Coach Al Holmes told him to get dressed and go back to the nurse.

The parents were called and they took the boy to the Ferguson Medical Group Clinic, where he was examined by a doctor and sent to Memphis.

Clayton said he was not sure who started the shoving match. He said no one realized how serious the situation was until after school had dismissed for the day. However, he said he planned to talk to the students about the incident today.

Kersey was born May 8, 1960 in Sikeston.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Clary of Sikeston; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mina Kersey of Sikeston; maternal great- grandfather, Homer Brewer of Sikeston; and paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Ruby Asher of Sikeston.

The body is at Nunnelee Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

Brewer named police chief at Advance

ADVANCE — The City Council Tuesday night voted to appoint Danny Brewer as chief of police and to hire Herman Hebenstriet as deputy policeman.

Mayor Barney Beecraft declared two vacancies on the board of aldermen, and April 2 was set as the date of the city election, at which time the vacancies will be filled.

The vacancies are aldermen for wards one and two.

The deadline for candidates to file for the offices was set on March 22.

2 policemen suspended

PORTAGEVILLE — Two city police officers, Roy Hurley and John Stevens Jr., were suspended Tuesday for one week without pay following a unanimous vote by the City Council Monday night, according to Mayor Barry Richardson.

Richardson cited neglect of duties for the suspension and added that although the officers had been told repeatedly that the police cars were not to leave town, the council had information the men had been leaving the city to drink coffee at a Marston service station and cafe.

Escapee's freedom ends with arrest in Arkansas

Franklin David McIntosh, 19, of Winchester, Ky., who escaped custody from the Sikeston City Courtroom Tuesday during Magistrate Court proceedings was apprehended at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night in Mississippi County, Arkansas.

McIntosh, who walked out of the courtroom, reportedly stole a 1961 station wagon owned by Mary Poyner at 11:40 a.m. at the Kingsway Plaza Shopping center and drove to New Madrid where he abandoned the automobile and stole a 1967 mustang owned by Joe Hunter of New Madrid. Police said they did not know if he drove the car to Arkansas.

He is being held in a jail in Osceola and, according to Scott County Sheriff John Dennis, extradition proceedings will begin today.

He was scheduled to appear before Judge Lloyd Briggs Tuesday in connection with the Nov. 23, 1973 armed robbery of the Quick Shop on South Main Street.

McIntosh had just returned from Farmington last week where he had undergone a mental examination.

He is also wanted by federal authorities for parole violation, two counts of car theft and possession of firearms. He is wanted in Kentucky on two counts of armed robbery, escaping from custody, grand larceny, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and underage possession of alcohol. He is also wanted by police in Virginia for seven counts of armed robbery.

Play promises laugh night

By TIM LUDWIG

Sikeston Little Theatre's latest offering, "My Three Angels", will be presented nightly Thursday through Saturday at 8 o'clock in Sikeston Activity Center.

The three-act comedy is about a French family living near a prison colony in South America and three convicts who come to their aid when Christmas descends with more problems than happiness.

The family consists of Felix, a businessman who trusts too much; Emilie, his practical wife and Marie Louise, their love-struck daughter.

When a letter arrives from France saying that Uncle Henri, the owner of the business, and his nephew Paul — who is Marie Louise's love interest — are coming for a visit, the convicts decide to take a hand to help straighten out the family's problems.

The problems are this: Paul, the boy whom Marie Louise loves, is engaged to marry another girl back in France as sort of a business deal and has lost his love for anything but money; and Uncle Henri, who is a tyranical owner that will surely react badly to Felix's policy of trust and credit.

The convicts, who have been working on the roof of the family's house learn of the problems and decide to help in their own highly unorthodix method.

The methods eventually include matchmaking that doesn't work at all, juggling of books, larceny, forgery and finally the use of a fourth member of their troupe, Adolf, who solves all of the problems by eliminating the sources.

Adolf, by the way, isn't an official cast member. Those of you who are lucky enough to see "My Three Angels" will find out who he is and what kind of "pal" he is to the three convicts.

Cast members for the three- act romp are Jim Wenneker Lynelle Dupont, JoEllen Felker, Teresa Terrell, F. X. Schumacher III, Tony Heckemery, Jamie Terrell, the Rev. Paul D. Walker, Larry Hightower and Bill Stevens.

A dress rehearsal Tuesday night indicated all cast members will do a fine job of putting on an extremely funny performance.

It's a good show and a good time with a group that knows how to bring out a laugh (sometimes even from themselves), so see it if you can.

Director Sandra A. York and the Sikeston Little Theatre crew will earn your laughs for this one.

Williams to speak at Head Start meeting

PORTAGEVILLE--- Dr. Kenton Williams of Kansas City, regional director of the Office of Child Development, will be principal speaker at a 7:30 p.m. meeting Thursday at the Portageville Head Start Center.

The center is located at the former bowling alley building near Big John's Drive- In in Portageville.

Other representatives of the Office of Child Development, Region VII, Health, Education and Welfare of Kansas City will also be present.

The meeting will provide area residents who are interested in the future of the Head Start Program for Southeast Missouri with first hand information from program executives.

Woman found shot to death

EAST PRAIRIE — Mrs. Thurman Moriarity of 210 S. Martin St. died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound about 9 a.m. today, according to Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle.

McMikle said Mrs. Moriarity died instantly after firing a single shot from a .38 caliber pistol into the left side of her chest.

No inquest will be held.

Mrs. Moriarity was found shortly after 9 a.m. in a small building behind her home by her daughter Miss Rhonda Moriarity, who lives across the street from her parents.

McMikle said that according to family members, Mrs. Moriarity had been in ill health and had been depressed for some time.

Her body was taken to Shelby Funeral Home.

$1,350 worth of tools stolen

Burglars took $1,350 worth of tools from the Agrico Chemical Inc. plant, 1600 W. Malone Ave., between 5 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. today, police reported today.

A drill press weighing between 200 and 300 pounds was taken, along with a number of electric grinders, two tool boxes and a large number of tools, police said.

2 arrested in theft

Police arrested two men for the burglary of the Kathy Schoney residence, 917 Tanner, about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Ronnie Jackson, 21, of 626 Murray Lane and Allen Wheeler, 20, of St. Louis, were arrested at 11:15 p.m. at King Arthur Lounge in the Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Miss Schoney told police she was lying in bed when one of the two men crawled in through her window and took a portable television set from the living room.

She said she could see into the living room from the bedroom and recognized the man in the house.

The television set was valued at $368.

Police also announced the arrests of David Anthony Matthews, 207 E. Center, for cashing bogus checks and Bobby Joe Lambert, 410 Sunset Drive, careless and imprudent driving.

Malden man injured

GLENNONVILLE — A Malden man was injured in a one- vehicle accident at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday two miles east of here on Route J, according to the highway patrol.

Jerry Mack Leathers, 22, received minor injuries when the right front tire of his ton and a half truck blew out, causing the vehicle to overturn.

Leathers was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Senate may act Thursday on bill for extra judge

JEFFERSON CITY — A bill containing an amendment to add another judge to the Springfield Court of Appeals may be acted upon in the state Senate Thursday.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, Democrat of Hornersville, would permit a permanent division of the court to be located in Southeast Missouri.

Tinnin says he prefers Poplar Bluff as the site of the appeals court division, since offices and a library have already been established there. The Poplar Bluff division would include Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Stoddard, Dunklin, Pemiscot and Butler counties.

Tinnin is seeking the division at the request of Appeals Judge William H. Billings of Springfield. Billings asked for the division

Reinstatement of death penalty favored

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Reinstatement of the death penalty, no-fault auto insurance, retention of the Sunday blue laws and ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment were favored by most of the people answering a poll taken this month by Rep. Gary Rust, R-Cape Girardeau.

Rust distributed 9,800 questionnaires in his district and compiled results after getting 1,159 answers.

Reinstatement of the death penalty was favored by 946 persons, or 81 per cent. Some form of no-fault auto insurance was favored by 812 or 70 per cent.

The so-called blue law against sales of certain products on Sundays received 539, or 47 per cent, for repeal and 559, or 48 per cent, against repeal.

Lowering the age of majority (legal age) to 18 was opposed by 671, or 58 per cent.

Rust quoted the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which failed in the Missouri legislature last year and has made little progress this year:

"Equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex."

Answering yes were 657, or 65.5 per cent, against 396 no votes.

Sixty-six per cent, or 772, were opposed to state aid to non-public schools, and 64 per cent cent, or 803, favored a right-to-work law.

A proposal to exempt food and drugs from sales tax favored by 846, or 73.8 per cent. Whether newsmen's sources should be protected by a shield law drew 577 against and 414 for.

Over half, or 596, opposed raising the limit on long-term loan interest rates from 8 to 10 per cent.

Over half answering the poll favored legalized abortions, legalized gambling, no change in the two-thirds vote requirement for most bond issues, and unionization for school teachers and public employes such as policemen and firefighters.

However, while majorities favored collective bargining for public employes, a majority opposed giving them the right to strike.

Sixty-one per cent, 709, said they thought Gov. Christopher S. Bond was doing a good job, 12 per cent said no and 27 per cent were undecided about the legislature, with 478, or 41.8 per cent saying they were undecided.

Saying legislators were doing a good job were 409 persons, while 258 said no.

A PAY RAISE FOR CONGRESS

In submitting his $300 billion budget to Congress on February 4, President Nixon included a proposal to increase the salaries of top Federal workers, including members of Congress. Under the plan, congressional salaries — already $42,500 annually — would go to $45,700 in March, $49,000 next year, and $52,800 in 1976.

Unless Congress vetoes the pay hike proposal by today, it automatically will go into effect. We believe the plan, in its present form, should be vetoed.

At the same time, we admit there are these good aspects to a proposal for higher congressional salaries: Salaries should be substantial enough to attract into politics the best men and women our country can produce. Any built-in insurance against a betrayal of public trust should be welcomed. Finally, although the 535 members of Congress already make considerably more than most of us, it is true they haven't had a raise in five years.

We remain convinced, however, that the bad aspects of the proposal outweigh the good. First, the current high cost of living — which is attributable in good measure to the spendthrift ways of Congress — makes the proposal a bitter pill to swallow.

Second, we believe that at a time when belt tightening is the order of the day for most Americans, a substantial salary increase for congressmen and other top Federal officials sets a very poor example. Many other citizens will be asked to scale down their salary demands this year and Congress should lead the way.

Our biggest objection to the plan, however, is its "automatic" provision. If it is not canceled by Congress, members will automatically receive pay increases through 1976 regardless of performance, the public mood, or the health of the economy.

We believe that as American taxpayers who are, in effect, the stockholders of Congress, we should have the right to insist that pay hikes be based on merit and not on fiat. If Congress is really serious about curbing inflation, let it begin here by vetoing this pay raise proposal and substituting in its place a more reasonable scheme.

YESTERDAY'S
MIDNIGHT RIDERS

At one time, every school child was expected to know the story of "Paul Revere's Ride" as immortalized by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Paul Revere was the midnight rider of the Revolutionary War who rode out of Boston to carry the message that the British were coming to attack the villages of Lexington and Concord.

The American Legion Magazine carries a fascinating story by Mr. Tom Mahoney about the "Night Riders of the American Revolution." Paul Revere was but one of these riders. Others were John Jouett and a 16- year- old girl Sybil Ludington. Paul Revere will be forever remembered in the pages of early American history -- thanks to Longfellow's popular poem. A little- known fact recorded by Mr. Mahoney is that the family name of Paul Revere lives today as a substantial national corporation -- Revere Copper and Brass, Incorporated. In the words of the Legion magazine, "Nobody would be more delighted than Paul Revere to know that two centuries since ihis time the silverware fashioned in Boston by himself and his father is widely imitated, that the originals are treasured as collectors' items ..."

No doubt the descendants of the other night riders of the American Revolution are going about their daily affairs in a country their ancestors founded a short two centuries ago. As nations go, the United States is still young. Paul Revere's ride happened but yesterday.

BUSWAYS SPEED
COMMUTER TRAFFIC

Cities grappling with commuter traffic congestion — and what major city isn't? — are looking at a new idea in public transportation that can be put into action quickly and effectively without spending millions of dollars.

It's the reserving of exclusive lanes for buses along major commuter routes.

One such lane can handle 20,000 passengers an hour, about six to 10 times as many people as can be accommodated by a lane used by private autos, according to The Road Information Program (TRIP), a Washington-based research and information agency supported by the road construction industry.

For example, well over half the commuters on Shirley Highway, the major route into Washington, D.C., from the Virginia suburbs, ride buses that use reserved lanes. Some 15,000 commuters on these buses are saving as much as 30 minutes over people in cars.

In New York, a lane leading to the Lincoln Tunnel has been reserved for buses and carries 35,000 people in 800 buses during the heaviest traffic hours.

Bus lanes are also in operation on the Long Island Expressway in New York, on the San Bernardino Freeway in Los Angeles and on the Southeast Expressway in Boston. On the Oakland Bay Bridge, more than 500 buses carrying 25,000 San Francisco-bound communters use reserved lanes to zip past autos jammed at the toll plaza during the morning rush hours.

In some cities, car pool autos containing three or more persons ware being allowed to use the exclusive lanes on a trial basis.

In addition to improving speed and mobility, says TRIP, the busway idea can reduce air pollution and conserve fuel.

On Virginia's Shirley Highway, approximately 3,000 automobiles were removed from operation during rush periods when the bus lanes were opened. A survey showed that 62 per cent of the Shirley bus riders have cars but prefer to ride the bus.

This is not to say that rail transit lines now being put into operation in some highly congested areas will not be needed. They serve specific needs in heavy travel corridors.

But where flexibility, speed of implementation and low cost are factors, busways appear to be a happy solution to a pressing problem.

"Cook it efficiently" is a new slogan with many energy-conscious homemakers these days. They've found that properly designed utensils, correct cooking temperatures, and better use of ovens can help save the budget as well as fuel.

For example, the size and shape of a baking pan affects the volume and texture. For a delicate browning of cakes, cookies and muffins, a lightweight aluminum pan with a shiny interior and slightly dulled bottom is recommended. But the anodized aluminum pans that have a dull finish are best for pies since they transfer heat quickly and produce a crisp flaky pastry.

A good demonstration of the way aluminum conducts heat quickly is to drive an aluminum spike or nail into a baking potato. You'll cut the baking time in about half

UNDERWAY

When President Nixon announced the consummation of contracts totaling nearly $660 million for construction of new merchant ships including the largest van- type freighters and tankers ever built in this country, the U.S. moved a step closer to reclaiming its heritage as a major maritime nation -- and to the assurance that it will have a commanding presence in world markets and in international trade.

As shipping authorities have stressed, the next priority is adoption of government policies and measures aimed at placing U.S. vessels on an equal competitive footing with foreigh- flag carriers. It should not be forgotten that the $660 million construction program is a joint effort with taxpaying, private enterprise funding more than half of the cost of the ships. The maritime industry will carry an ever- heavier share of the responsibility for the success of the expanding merchant marine. The shipbuilding program initiated by the shipping industry and the federal government is one of the most vital investments in the future this country has ever made -- a fact that will become more evident as our needs for the goods and resources of other lands becomes greater. Administration officials estimage that the 16 new vessels to be built under the contracts will mean 36,000 jobs at shipyards and supply firms and 800 jobs on the ships over the next three years.

In a nation approaching the verge of an energy crisis, the news that the program includes construction of three 265,000-ton supertankers is timely indeed and underlines America's growing dependence upon a strong merchant marine.

RAMPAGING
SAFETY-FIRSTERS

Fifty-one years ago a Chicago economist wrote, "A large part of the critic's strictures on the existing system come down to protests against the individual wanting what he wants instead of what is good for him, of which the critic is to be the judge and the critic does not feel himself called upon even to outline any standards other than his own preferences upon a basis of which judgment is to be passed." Since these words were uttered, consumer protectionism has come into full bloom. The words of the economist half a century ago looked to the future with an uncanny prescience.

Today consumer protectionism has gone to an extreme that threatens continued progress in many fields. One of these is in the development of lifesaving prescription drugs. The U. S. now lags behind other nations in the discovery of new drugs. Regulation has become a cult of safety in which government bureaus, agencies and consumer organizations have wholly lost sight of the need to balance risk against benefit that has been essential to human progress and the evolution of civilized socieites. The philosophy of the "safety-firsters" is devastating. It follows the rule of thumb that no drug should be available to the ill that might place a single life in jeopardy. Under this philosophy, even aspirin is hazardous. It costs pharmaceutical companies incalculable millions of dollars and a decade or more to fight through the red tape of getting a new drug to market even after it has been discovered.

While the safety- firsters pursue their no-risk dogma, the odds are good that perhaps millions of people will suffer illness and death unnecessarily in the decades ahead because of the unavailability of drugs lying stillborn in the pharmaceutical industry's laboratories. As the Chicago economist said 51 years ago, we are living in an age when "... the critic does not feel himself called upon ... to outline any standards other than his own..."

CREATING MORE
THAN THEY SOLVE

Maybe we're too old to figure today's problems, but raising and raising the prices of gasoline is supposed to make more of it for all of us. Those who can afford it will drive, but those who don't have the money, will have to stay off the roads. At least that's the way it looks to us. And the Shah of Iran, the big man in one of the oil countries, says it is shipping just as much oil to us as it ever did. Ralph Nader says there is no shortage. But the big oil companies tell us there is.

WINTER CRISIS
AND SPRING

It's beginning to look like we will survive the winter and all the dire predictions of some leaders who were concerned-- rightly-- with the fuel shortages. There was enough fuel to keep us warm. Even now, buds are in evidence on some of the trees and that means that we are not far from spring. It is not uncommon in my area to see freshly plowed ground where the good people will use the good earth to grow those wonderful vegetables that are so nourishing and tasty. The storms of winter shall pass.

In my long career I have seen the nation-- and the world-- go into crises, some even worse than the current energy shortage, but the determination of the people to work out of them prevailed and the crises passed. It does take work along with a constructive attitude. If government restrictions are taken off the wildcatter, he will find the energy. If the restrictions are taken off the farmer, he will produce the food. Both the farmer and the wildcatter are working with the good earth which is still productive.

There is no more beautiful evidence of this productivity than the gardens that are seen in the spring. If you don't make a garden yourself, look at those that your friends and neighbors are working and you will find inspiration. I always had pride in the gardens at my house.

Despair is not a word for the American vocabulary. That includes our thinking on the energy crisis and other problems. Toil and the beauties of nature are great incentives of life. I have just celebrated my 85th year of it. H.L.H.

NEED CAUTION ON THIS DEVELOPMENT

An effort is being made to stop the establishment of a giant hog factory on 5,000 to 10,000 acres of land in Clark County, on the theory that such- a development will damage the individual, private hog farmer.

We believe those opposing it are right, and that such huge, corporation - controlled farming complexes should be outlawed.

If this one is established, and is successful, it will probably eventually lead to establishment of hundreds of others, and in the long run put control of the fat hog market into the hands of a few of the Big Money people instead of those of the home producer.

Right now, we all see every day what has happened in the field of energy because a few huge oil companies got control of the major part of the business. Scarcities have resulted and prices raised unreasonably.

Corporation hog or other types of farming could lead to exactly the same situation in the food business.

None of us want this, and none of us want to be at the mercy of a few wealthy persons who could do the same thing with food that they have done with oil and its by-products.

THE ANTI-UNION
UNION

It would be a wonderful opportunity for some young person with ambition to organize the public into a union which will put up real resistance to what union labor is forcing on the public. And also to take a part in politics like organized labor is doing. Whenever the legislature is in session, we the people need a lobby to represent us with the ability to compete with the liquor and trucking lobbies, and all those others who spend so much time getting our legislators to spend so much of the taxpayers money and to grant so many favors. We'll have to furnish them money and booze to get their job done. Each legislator is supplied with all the beer and liquor he can use for himself or entertaining others, so we read in a St. Louis newspaper. Our lobby might also try to stop the spiraling pay scale of our legislators, who work about three days a week, and only six months a year, usually not getting done until the final few days, and then frequently letting important bills die.

COURT COPS OUT
ON OBSCENITY ISSUE

The U. S. Supreme Court has refused to review or revise or elaborate on its ruling of last June establishing new guidelines for obscenity and returning to local communities more control over pornographic, or allegedly pornographic, materials.

The court rejected without comment not only a number of requests to reconsider its decision but also one by Virginia to clarify just what it meant by the "community standards" test. Are they to be statewide standards or those of every individual city or town or country?

The court remained sphinxlike.

Although at least one film has been ruled obscene by a judge in the Bronx, N. Y., while being acquitted by another judge on Manhattan, we have not yet reached the point where a book or film or magazine is banned and confiscated in one political jurisdiction and is freely available down the street and across the line in the next jurisdiction.

Thanks to the Supreme Court, however, we may be on our way there.

The manager of a movie theater in downtown Boston was recently sentenced to two- and- a- half years in prison for possessing and exhibiting a film whose advertisements are deemed fit enough to print by as respectiable a newspaper as the New York Times.

Now there is nothing new about someone going to jail in one state for doing something which is perfectly legal - or less illegal - in another state. At one time, before the harsher laws were softened, punishments for use or possession of marijuana ranged from a small fine to life imprisonment.

Every state has its own gambling laws. The control of intoxicating beverages is an excellent example of the principle of local option at work.

Why can't it be the same with pornography?

The trouble is that neither marijuana smoking nor gambling — nor for that matter most other human activities — are specifically mentioned or protected by the U. S. Constitution. As for the other example, in repealing Prohibition, Congress established that it is up to the discretion of the several states to permit or prohibit the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages.

Films, books and magazines on the other hand are forms of expression which fall under the wide purview of the First Amendment; and if it be objected that the Amendment was certainly never intended to protect obscenity, neither does it prohibit it.

In any event, who is to define what is obscene in each and every circumstance? That is, and always will be, the agonizing question.

Freedom of expression is much too essential a part of freedom itself to be left simply to 'local option,'' especially as the zealous pursuit of what is considered obscene at a given time and in a given place so often leads to the prosecution of the socially and artistically worthy products of the human mind as well as the unworthy.

The Supreme Court cannot drop this kind of time bomb and walk away from the consequences. It must provide the country with better guidance in this matter than it has.

BACK ON RADIO
AS NIGHTLY FARE

Mystery dramas had their heyday on network radio of the '40's and one of the most prolific producers at the time was Hi Brown whose squeaking door signature of "Inner Sanctum Mysteries" led a parade of half-hour thrillers.

Now he returns as executive producer for hour- long nighttime mystery dramas on CBS radio, seven nights a week, starting in January entitled, "The CBS Radio Mystery Theatre."

HOSTAGE TO INERTIA

The president of the National Association of Motor Bus Owners in commenting upon the Surface Transportation Act now pending in Congress made a timely observation when he said nearly everyone would agree that: "the future of surface transportation will be shaped substantially by the scope and intensity of economic regulation."

The Surface Transportation Act is strongly supported by all major forms of surface common carrier transportation who see it as the measure most likely to restore competitive equality to transportation thus removing the threat of nationalization. A government take- over of basic segments of the transportation industry would cost taxpayers untold billions of dollars undermine the private enterprise system as we have known it in this country and provide no solution to the economic troubles of transportation.

Recent rate hearings forcefully illustrate a phase of the regulatory bind that is breaking the back of the rails. The hearings involved selective freight rate increases that would produce an additional $489 million in revenue each year while the rail industry, in taxes and wages alone, is incurring added expenses at the rate of $1.6 billion per year. Spokesmen for the railroads testified at the hearing that the industry "cannot afford further delay" in putting rate increases into effect. They also emphasized that the increases would not be enough to meet the railroads' pressing needs.

Consumers, the shipping public, rail managements and investors -- the entire nation -- are now hostage to the regulatory and congressional deliberations deciding the fate of the railroads and the transportation industry. The old saying that progress depends upon keeping the wheels turning is literally true in the case of the railroads. Every community and every home in the nation depend upon the turning wheels of the Iron Horse.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Probe American Legion For White House Ties

WASHINGTON-- The Watergate prosecutors have been investigating, of all groups, the American Legion on suspicion that the White House used legionnaires to stand up to left- wing demonstrators.

To the bewilderment of National Adjutant William Hauck, who has been a determinedly nonpartisan friend of presidents since 1952, he was called in for interrogation by the prosecutors.

Hauck duly appeared before a stern, young lawyer named Nick Ackerman who, ironically, won the American Legion "Voice of Democracy" award at high school in 1965. Ackerman wanted to know whether the White House had tried to get the legion to bus in members for the funeral of J. Edgar Hoover.

The prosecutors apparently thought the White House tried to recruit legionnaires to square off with left- wing demonstrators at the funeral, thereby stirring up sentiment against President Nixon's enemies on the left. It's known that the Cuban Watergate burglary team was sent to squabble with the demonstrators.

The long- suffering Hauck was also interrogated about the legion's history and its stand on the Pentagon Papers case. He was even questioned, astonishingly, about the White House tapes.

Hauck confided to us that he was "dumbfounded" at the questioning. Nevertheless, he patiently denied that the White House had contacted the legion about the Hoover funeral or meddled in legion policies.

He also checked with other top legionnaires and wrote a private letter to Ackerman, stating they also had received no call "urging the influx of busloads of American Legionnaires to attend Mr. Hoover's funeral."

At the Watergate Special Prosecutor's office, a spokesman said it was "absolutely wrong" to say the legion was under investigation. "We have asked many patriotic Americans to cooperate with us and regret very much that anyone would assume this meant we were investigating them," said the spokesman.

The spokesman's definition of investigation differs with the dictionary definition and the impression left on the legion.

As described by intelligence reports from the battle zone, the Chinese are led by officers in close touch with Peking.

Their thrusts into the hills and towns of northern Burma threaten not only Burma but Thailand, which has close military ties with the United States. There are no reports, however, that American special forces in Thailand have intervened in the spreading conflict.

The transcript of an unusual Morse radio transmission from the northern Shan states of Burma tells of powerful Communist action against Shan opium armies and troops of the "KMT (Taiwan)," a Chinese Kuomintang force in Burma.

Relayed by Shan rebel army transmitters, the message says: "CPB (Communist Party, Burma) attack KMT (Taiwan) in Mong Sang on Jan. 21, 1974, 0500 hours....15 KMT killed and many wounded." The message claims many weapons were seized by the Communists.

A second message reports: "CPB occupied Mong Sang....Shan United Army (a rebel anti- Communist group—

More clashes between the Communists and the Shan armies have been reported in the wireless transmissions of Hpa Heing, Chiang Lain, Om Tung, Kat Lof and Wan Ho Nar.

From other intelligence sources, we have learned that the Communists now threaten the Burmese district capital of Keng Tung and may control the only road connecting it with the rest of Burma.

Another message claims that the Chinese guerrillas probably hold "most of the area between the Nam Pang river and the Salween area"-- a huge tract of misty mountains and deep gorges in northern Burma.

Rep. Lester Wolff, D- N. Y., chairman of the House International Narcotics subcommittee, has established contacts with the Shan army to keep abreast of the opium trade. He has learned that the Chinese military moves may jeopardize his efforts to free two Russian doctors, who were kidnapped by Shan rebels from a Soviet mercy mission to Burma.

The Russians have secretly asked Wolff's help in getting the doctors back. To Wolff's astonishment, he was called from a sick bed to meet with a Soviet diplomat on the matter. Wolff promised to do what he could.

The congressman has used his contacts to seek the doctors' relief. The intermediaries, as a gesture, tried to smuggle two bottles of vodka to them via caravan routes into northern Burma. The vodka, Wolff has learned, was intercepted. But he has received unconfirmed reports that one of the doctors has now been sent southward in a jade caravan to freedom.

The other, as far as can be determined, remains in Shan rebel hands without his vodka. He is being held hostage as part of a bizarre scheme to get talks going on Shan independence

College representative to visit high school

Ken Wilund, a representative of Fontbonne College, will visit with interested students at Sikeston High School at 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

Fontbonne is a four-year college located in Clayton and offers a combination of liberal arts and professional programs. The majority of the college's 625 students are from the St. Louis area and commute to classes daily. Twenty-six states and five foreign countries are represented in Fontbonne's two dormitories.

Majors and programs at the college lead to a variety of degrees, including:

Art; business (including accounting, administrative secretarial, business education, management, personnel administration and retailing); communication disorders (speech pathology); education, both elementary and secondary; special education, including deaf education, emotionally disturbed, learning disabilities, mentally retarded and reading specialist.

Home economics, including dietetics, early childhood or home economics with business, sociology or education; chemistry; English; environmental studies; French; journalism; life sciences; mathematics; medical technology; pre-law; pre-med; psychology; religion; social sciences (history and sociology); theatre; music; and social work.

A student's interests and ambitions can be combined to form his course of study through Fontbonne's college major program. In selecting the college major, a student may choose courses from various departments or combine academic and work experience to create an individual degree program.

Other academic options at Fontbonne include independent study programs, interdisciplinary courses and the satisfactory/unsatisfactory grading option.

The 4-1-4 academic calendar offers the student flexibility. Four courses are taken in the fall, the student spends January on a special project of this choice, and then completes four courses in the spring. There are no required courses at Fontbonne, except those necessary to complete a chosen major.

Daniels bound over to Circuit; bond set

NEW MADRID— Two men were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on felony charges when each waived preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

David Daniels was bound over on a felonious stealing charge and his bond was set at $500. He is accused of stealing a 1951 pickup truck valued at $300 which belonged to Richard Lawson.

Jefferson L. Huggins of Gideon posted $500 bond pending appearance in Circuit Court on a third offense of driving while intoxicated. Huggins also was levied a $71 fine on charges of driving while license is under revocation and failure to register vehicle.

Fines on speeding charges were imposed against James Lassie Kellett, $28; Larry Gene Weldon, $28; Ricky Joe Burnett, $27; Mary Kathleen Copeland, $29; Berlynn Pope, $30; Bobby Dean Rounsavall, $50; Clarence Dempsey Gardner, $32; and William Thomas Watson, $16.

Fined $20 each were Joe Laws, no copy of Missouri special fuel user's license in truck; William Claude Ervin, expired auto license; Jimmy D. Truelove, expired truck license; and Gerald Bee Thomas, expired truck license.

Vada Nordeen was fined $35 on a charge of cheat and defraud by stopping payment on a $22 check to Mary Phillips.

Null fined

Correction

NEW MADRID — The city housing authority paid $731.52 to the city in lieu of taxes in 1973, rather than $53,731.52, as erroneously reported in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Standard.

3 file for board seats

CHARLESTON-- Herbert Marshall II of 109 Danforth St. and Floyd Stallings of 1403 E. Cypress St. have filed for reelection to the R-1 School district board of education.

Mrs Jane Banta Hopkins of 510 E. Commercial St. also filed as a candidate for one of the two three-year positions prior to Tuesday's filing deadline, according to Mrs. Eleanor Hequembourg, board secretary.

Voters in the April 2 general election will also be balloting for or against a 30 cent increase in the school tax levy, raising the present rate of $3.60 per $100 assessed valuation to $3.90.

Bartlett to head committee

John Bartlett, a retired shoe factory employe, was elected chairman of the Community Citizenship Action Committee Sunday during a meeting at Tanner Street Church of God.

The group was organized under the sponsorship of the Christian Civic Foundation in St. Louis in an effort to prevent adoption of legalized gambling in Missouri.

Other officers elected Sunday were the Rev. Lawrence Ray, pastor of the Vanduser Baptist Church, vice chairman; and Charles V. Chaney, a real estate agent, recording secretary.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled April 8 at a place to be announced later.

The group's membership is open to Scott Countians opposed to legalized gambling in the state.

If you've run out of ideas for a rainy afternoon, try taking the kids to the florist or a local greenhouse. Children are entranced by the bright colors and forms of flowers and plants, says the Society of American Florists. Let them choose a small plant to take home or ingredients for a terrarium and you'll be well on your way to helping them cultivate a love and respect for growing things.

Martha Cohen is bride of Sgt. Richard Bergbigler

HOMESTEAD, Fla. -- Martha Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cohen Sr. of Sikeston, Mo., and Staff Sgt. Richard Bergbigler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bergbigler Sr. of Butler, Pa., were united in marriage Feb. 16 in First Methodist Church. The Rev. Tillman Wise performed the double -ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white gown of polyester crepe with lace accenting the seven -inch cuffs, midriff belt and collar. The wide ruffle at the hemline was accented with lace at its top and bottom. A small satin bow complimented the back of the dress.

The bride's cathedral -length veil was made of fine netting and featured a lace edge. It was attached to a lace -covered Juliet -style cap accented by three small satin ribbons on the back and sides.

The bride carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Cohen served as her daughter's matron of honor. She wore a red and white street -length dress and a corsage of white carnations.

The couple lives at 59 N. W. 10th Street, Apt. 4, Homestead, where the groom is stationed in the Air Force.

The average home has many mini- climates suitable for a variety of plants and potted flowers, according to the Society of American Florists. Flowering plants generally need lots of sunlight provided by a south or west window, although some shade lovers will prefer a bright north light. A plant needing high humidity may do best in the kitchen or bath.

Spring arrives March 20 at 7:07 a.m. Eastern Standard Time and one of the best spring tonics could be a visit to your local florist to see the array of spring flowers. Hyacinths, tulips, azaleas, mums and cinerarias are just a few of the wares signifying that spring is here.

Sisters reunited with mother

Banana Herbs

The banana plant is really an herb, not a tree. Its "trunk" is merely the sheathing bases of the leaf-stalks.

Mother, daughters unite after 14 years apart

(Editor's note: This is a follow -up to a feature article which appeared in the Feb. edition of The Daily Standard about two sisters who were reunited after 14 years of separation).

By JUDY STRICKLIN

Mrs. Tom (Margaret) Robey, 114 Broadway Ave., and Mrs. Eugene (Mary Ann) Dennis of Memphis, Tenn., held another reunion in Sikeston last weekend. This time, however, they were joined by a third sister neither had seen since they were placed in separate homes --unknown to each other --for adoption 14 years ago.

Mrs. Robey, 19, Mrs. Dennis, 20, and Joyce Ann Watkins, 16, of Willard (located since the earlier article was published) also were reunited for the first time with their mother, Mrs. Lena May Oliver of St. James, during the weekend reunion.. The family lived in Pemiscot County before being separated.

The girls were 6, 5, and 2 years old at the time of separation. Margaret was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. L.C. McConnell of Sikeston Route Three, Mary Ann was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Parker Moody of Caruthersville and Joyce Ann was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Watkins of St. Louis, who later moved to Willard.

Guests at the reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. McConnell were Margaret and Mary Ann's husbands, Tom Robey of Sikeston and Eugene Dennis of Memphis, and the Dennises' son Stevie; Marsha McConnell, Margaret's sister; Mr. and Mrs. Watkins and son Walter of Willard, adoptive parents and brother of Joyce Ann; and a friend, Doug Williams of Willard.

Cashmere coat has tie belt

This elegant, white, cashmere coat is accented with a self- fabric tie belt and will be modeled by Barbara Ziegenhorn at the ninth annual Coalesce Club fashion show and card party on March 11 at Ramada Inn. Proceeds from the show, which begins at 7:30 p.m., will go to various community projects. Tickets are available at the door or from club members.

Ann Landers

'As one ages, his dentures should be replaced'

Dear Ann Landers: I work with a delightful lady. She's good- natured and attractive--except for one thing. Her dentures.

When she smiles, she exposes about two inches of upper gum. Her dentures often slip when she speaks, and recently I was scared to death they'd fall out at an office party.

I asked my dentist how a person could be unaware of such a thing. He said, "when the tissue shrinks, as it is bound to do with age, the dentures ought to be replaced. Some people don't know this." Should I tell my friend to get new dentures or keep quiet and not risk offending her?--Treading Lightly

Dear T.L.: Do her a favor. Tell her.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for the woman who complained because her husband grabbed at her all the time, made suggestive remarks in front of the children, and so on. She felt such behavior should be kept in the bedroom. My guess is that he wasn't getting much in the bedroom, either.

I had the same problem with my "Randy Andy," so I know what I'm talking about. A man who is satisfied is not always trying to get more. My advice to that woman is this: Put yourself out even if his carnal appetite is lustier than yours. Let your husband know you want him as much as he wants you, but ask him to please keep it behind closed doors. Also, tell him to call it LOVE, not SEX. There's a big difference.--- Been Down That Same Road And Knew When To Turn

Dear Been D. T. R.: Thanks for the road map. Your directions are plenty explicit. And they make sense, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 14 and in my first year of high school. When I was very young I got into this habit of smelling my old, dirty baby blanket to help me fall asleep. My sisters did the same thing. But they gave up their blankets when they were six and seven. I've still got the habit. My old baby blanket fell apart years ago, so now I smell the bedspread instead. When I have girl friends sleep over I can't wait till the lights are out so I can grab a corner of the bedspread and start sniffing. Please tell me how to kick this habit.--Hooked

Dear H.: Try a substitute. Put some lovely perfume on your wrist, and sniff that instead.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a minister in a Southern town. People are supposed to come to me for advice and here I am writing to Ann Landers. Incredible!

I took this job five years ago. With the job came a 60-year- old sexton, a lonely man who lost his wife and has no children. The job is his whole life.

He hangs around after working hours, won't leave and is a great talker. The fellow is good- hearted and well- liked, but his nose is in everything. When parishioners come to see me he sits in my office and they won't talk in front of him.

I've asked him to please go home after work and not hang around. He says, "I'm sorry. Yu're right," pouts for a few days and then it's the same story.

My secretary has threatened to quit. My wife is fed up, and so am I. But I'm afraid to fire him because he has so many friends. Can you offer some advice before we all quit and leave him to run the place?--Stymied

Dear Reverend S.: Give the lovable pest one more warning. Either he leaves the church at quitting time or he's fired. Then, do it. And, if the congregation would rather have him than you, LET him run the place.

Homes Fostered Family Solidarity

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT. By Robert C. Twombley. Harper & Row. 306 Pages. $10.

Just about everyone who has ever lived in a house probably has had an urge to design the "perfect home" of his own conception. Frank Lloyd Wright had this urge some 600 times in the course of his 71-year career.

Architects, historians, psychologists, sociologists and the general reader with a home vision of his own, all will find this exhaustive and orderly study of the titan of American architecture both penetrating and revealing. Penetrating, because Twombley has done his homework with a zest founded upon a long-standing admiration for the man. And revealing, because he does not accept the "official" interpreations of Wright's life that are obscured by a mythology that only "great men" seem to generate.

Softners may hurt dryers

Sears, Roebuck and Co. has cautioned its customers that the use of some dryer- type fabric softeners/ conditioners may cause costly damage to its dryers.

Ray Sellers, manager of the Sears store in Midtowner Village Shopping Center, advises dryer owners who wish to condition fabrics to use softeners/ conditioners designed for use in washers and to use them in accordance with the instructions.

"A dryer type softener/ conditioner should not be used unless the softener manufacturer assures that it is not harmful to dryers," he said. "We understand that some manufacturers are changing their products to eliminate the problem."

Sears sells both gas and electric dryers under the Kenmore label.

"We have found that many softeners/ conditioners sold for use in dryers can cause a softening of the interior finish of Sears dryers. This may result in rust which can be transferred to clothing," Sellers said.

In addition, he said many dryer- type softeners/ conditioners can cause clogging of lint screens, reducing the effectiveness of dryers.

Sears said it plans to:

--Label all new dryers with a caution note recommending that dryer- type softeners/ conditioners not be used unless the softener manufacturer assures that it is not harmful to dryers.

--Add a statement to its dryer guarantee to emphasize that damage from the use of dryer- type softeners/ conditioners does not result from a defect in materials or workmanship and, therefore, such damage would not be covered under the guarantee.

Sears said the dryer fabric softeners / conditioners could have a similar effect on all Kenmore dryers, regardless of age.

Former resident elected officer of association

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.-- J. M. Shaver of White Plains has been elected vice president of the New York chapter of the National Association of Accountants (NAA).

Shaver, a former Sikeston, Mo., resident, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Shaver of 256 W. Kathleen Ave., Sikeston.

Associated with the controller's department of the Exxon Corp. in New York City, Shaver is a graduate of University of Missouri-Columbia and New York University. Before his election as vice president, he served the chapter as secretary and in various director capacities.

The NAA consists of 70,000 professionals, mostly the top and middle management of major organizations. It directs itself to the educational aspects of accounting and financial management.

The scope of the association has expanded from the traditional methods of record keeping to today's complex business information systems.

The NAA was founded in 1919 and now has over 300 chapters around the world, of which the New York chapter is the largest.

Chapter programs provide continuing education in many areas of business. Spurred on by the diligence of its members who represent leading American firms, the NAA has greatly helped business utilize the tremendous analytical capabilities of today's management techniques.

Dexter man buys motor company

KENNETT— H. V. Sewell, an auto dealer in Kennett since 1949, has sold Sewell Motor Co. to Joe Puricelli, formerly a salesman for City Motor Sales in Dexter.

Sewell was a Ford dealer in Campbell for 18 years before coming to Kennett in 1943. In 1949, Sewell Motor Co. operated for business in a building located where the Arkansas- Missouri Power Co. offices are now. The present Sewell Motor Co. building was built on First Street in 1954, and in 1957, Sewell bought the Ford dealership.

Puricelli, 30, said he, his wife and three children will move to D[illegible] future.

Madrid aid payments announced

NEW MADRID— A total of $211,624.13, representing various welfare funds, were disbursed in February by the New Madrid County Welfare office, with the greatest part of that amount paid to aid to dependent children recipients, according to figures released by Mrs. Laverne Hadder, director of the office.

ADC funds totaling $113,509 were received by 905 families for 2,338 children at an average of $125.42 per family.

A total of 807 persons were transferred to the new Supplemental Security Income rolls. These persons no longer receive assistance payments from the state programs. However, they remain eligible for Title 19 (Medicaid benefits from the state).

A total of $12,330 was paid to 217 persons for state supplemental payments only. These persons were previously on the old age assistance, permanent and total disability and aid to the blind payrolls, and were not eligible for the SSI program.

General relief funds amounting to $17,498 were paid to 255 families of 272 persons for an average check of $64.33 per person.

Hospital and nursing home expenditures amounted to $52,170.41.

There were 169 children under child welfare supervision. New Madrid County Court and state boarding funds each contributed matching funds of $476.36 for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care and incidentals for the children.

Food stamp figures were not available.

Crocker, small but tough

WASHINGTON, Mo.— Southeast Missouri's Class A basketball power, the Advance Hornets, face Central Missouri's best in the quarterfinals of the state tournament at 7:30 tonight in the Washington High School gymnasium.

Coach Carroll Cookson's AHS cagers, participants in the state finals for the past two seasons with a first and second place finish, take a 22- 9 season mark into the contest against Crocker's 28- 2 slate.

The Hornets will have to stop 6- foot forward Joe Tanner if they are to advance into their third straight state finals appearance at Columbia. Tanner is averaging 20.3 points a game and has a deadly shot from the 20 to 30- foot range.

Crocker, a member of the always tough Central Missouri Frisco League, fashioned a 23- 5 mark last season and have lost only to Bourbon (72- 67) and Tuscumbia (63- 62) this season.

Sparking the Lions defensively is Andy Lowe, a 5- foot- 11 guard who also gives them a near 20- point per game average offensively.

Sports in Brief

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Cohen High School Coach Ken Brownson plans to buy each of his players a steak dinner today after they won their first baseball game in eight years.

Cohen smashed Clark 13-5 Tuesday.

Clark had been picked by a local sports writer to win the Class AAAA district championship this year.

Brownson said his players earned the steak dinner. "They really deserve it.

"They've had to take a lot of razzing at school, like, 'How bad you guys going to get beat today!' "

Today in U.S. history

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, March 6, the 65th day of 1974. There are 300 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1836, the Alamo in San Antonio, Tex., fell after a 13-day siege. Davy Crockett and some 180 other defenders were killed.

On this date:

In 1475, the Renaissance artist Michelangelo was born in Caprese, Italy.

In 1857, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a slave, Dred Scott, could not sue for his freedom in a federal court.

In 1945, during World War II, the German city of Cologne fell to the U.S. 1st Army.

In 1957, the former British African colonies of the Gold Coast and Togoland became the indpennt state of Ghana.

In 1953, Georgi Malenkov became Soviet premier after the death of Josef Stalin.

In 1961, President John F. Kennedy issued an executive order stating that Americans of all colors and beliefs must have equal job opportunities within the government and with firms doing business with the government.

Today's birthday: Conductor Julius Rudel is 53. Hall of Fame pitcher Robert "Lefty" Grove is 74.

Thought for today: Ask yourself whether you are happy, and you cease to be so. — John Stuart Mill, English philosopher and economist, 1806-1873.

Though Ceylon is the world's second largest producer of tea, exceeded only by India, its major export formerly was cinnamon. When the cinnamon trade dropped off, coffee plantations were started as a substitute. Not until blight destroyed coffee crops in the 1880s did tea become a major crop on the island.

BUFORD E. KINDER

SCOTT CITY — Buford Edward Kinder, 56, died Tuesday at Jewish Hospital in St. Louis.

He was born Feb. 2, 1918 in Swinton to Mrs. Clara Shumate Kinder and the late Ernest D. Kinder.

He was married to the former Beatrice Rubel, who survives.

Kinder was a member of the Assembly of God Church and had worked as truck driver in the construction industry.

Other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Linda Pikey of Scott City and Mrs. Ruth Ann Tripp of Independence; four brothers, Elwood Kinder of Sikeston, Gene Kinder of Scott City, Dwight Kinder of Eufaula, Okla., and Jack Kinder of Chaffee and two sisters, Mrs. Wanda Odom of Cape Girardeau and Mrs. Ruby Brant of Illmo.

The body is at Amick-Burnett Funeral Home in Illmo, where arrangements are incomplete.

JOHN HENRY WOLFE

DEXTER — John Henry Wolfe, 91, died Monday at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

He was born June 12, 1882 at Oxford, Miss., to the late Phillip and Nancy Perkins Wolfe.

He was a member of the Baptist Church at Moline, Ill.

On Nov. 11, 1902, he married Catherine Mise, who preceded him in death Feb. 13, 1936.

Survivors include three daughters, Daisy Caruthers of Florissant, Mrs. Willard Williams of Tucson, Ariz. and Beatrice Langston of Dutchtown; one son, Brooks Wolfe of Broadview Heights, Ohio; two sisters, Nettie Maples of Oxford, Miss., and Martha Lewis of Red Banks, Miss.; and 18 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at Watkins and Sons Funeral Home, where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. Edward Wolfe of New Madrid will officiate.

Burial will be in Dexter Cemetery.

SAMUEL L. MILES

DEXTER — Samuel Latham Miles, 80, a retired farmer, died Tuesday at his home.

He was born July 4, 1893 in Stoddard County to the late William and Marion Miles.

On Sept. 26, 1966, he married Mary McRoy, who preceded him in death Jan. 8, 1968.

Four nephews and four nieces survive.

Friends may call after 6 p.m. today at Watkins and Sons Funeral Home, where services are scheduled at 3 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. D. L. Huffman will officiate.

Burial will be in Triplett Cemetery.

CHARLES W. BROWN

EAST PRAIRIE — Services for Charles William "Jabo" Brown, 56, of Charleston, S. C., who died Monday in Walterboro, S. C., will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in Shelby Funeral Home. The Rev. James Bolden will officiate.

Burial will be in East Prairie Memorial Park Cemetery.

Lucemobile will visit area towns

NEW MADRID— The Lucemobile, a learning center on wheels, will be in New Madrid, Howardville and Portageville March 13-15 on its tour of New Madrid County.

The Lucemobile will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. March 13 at the New Madrid Federal Housing Authority and the same hours March 14 at the Howardville community building and March 15 at the Portage Village Federal Housing Authority in Portageville.

It is made available by the cooperative extension services of Lincoln University in Jefferson City and University of Missouri-Columbia.

The mobile center has housing care information to help families and individuals improve and maintain their homes.

Information can be obtained on a variety of topics, such as repairing leaky faucets and electric plugs, care of floors, frauds in home repairs, fixing problem doors, caring for the range and refrigerator and others.

Dr. Sue Fowler and Miss Lois Deneke, Lincoln University housing specialists, are in charge of the learning center and its programs, which they developed with the assistance of Judy Swartz of Kennett and Fredericka Plummer of Charleston, area extension home economists, and Mr. and Mrs. Lance Powell, mobile staff members.

4 students to attend St. Louis conference

ST. LOUIS-- Four students representing Sikeston Senior High School will attend the Missouri Regional Junior Science, Engineering and Humanities Symposium Thursday through Saturday at the University of Missouri- St. Louis.

Students attending will be Raymond Waits, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Waits, 416 Shady Lane; Barbara Boshears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boshears, 103 Selma St.; Buddy Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Barnes, 101 Linda Dr., and Alberta Sloan who lives with Mr. and Mrs. Castor Alsup, Route Three.

The students are among 150 in the state who were chosen by UMSL to attend the three-day symposium in St. Louis, and to compete for participation at the national conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in April.

During the visit to UMSL, students will present original research papers, visit laboratories of practicing scientists in various St. Louis industries, and talk with educators and researchers about their career interests.

The symposium grant was awarded by the U. S. Army Office of Research, which has been funding other regional symposiums in the country for several years. Part of the money will be used to cover the expenses of the students chosen to go to the national conference.

Tinnin's amendment was added to Senate Bill 372, which would add one judge to Kansas City.

"I hope the lawyers and judges in my district will all support my move to have another judge added to the Springfield Court of Appeal," Tinnin said.

"I was asked to write the bill but due to the short session and the request coming so late, it was impossible to do it any other way than to amend either the Kansas City bill or the St. Louis bill," he said.

The St. Louis bill would add two judges to the city. However, Tinnin did add his amendment to that bill, because it was expected to come under fire in the Senate, a spokesman at Tinnin's office said.

"With the need to go to the appelate courts more and more, particularly in the area of motions and writs, it would be not only to the advantage of the Southeast Missouri people, but to the courts as well, that the Springfield Court of Appeals establish a permanent division of their courts to be located in Southeast Missouri preferably Poplar Bluff," Tinnin said.

Certificates of appreciation presented

Retiring PCA advisory committee members are honored at meeting

Six retiring members of the Sikeston Production Credit Association advisory committee who had served their three year term received certificates of appreciation Tuesday night at the association's annual Ladies' Night Advisory Committee meeting at the First United Methodist Church.

Members honored were John Pobst, Eugene Pobst and William G. Fowler of Sikeston; Thomas Rendleman Sr. of Painton, Joseph R. Brown of Bell City and William M. Cole of Bertrand. The certificates were presented by Gordon P. Hill, assistant vice president of the Sikeston Field Office.

Ray Edmonds, assistant vice president in charge of the Charleston office, told the approximately 110 people attending the joint meeting between the Sikeston and Charleston field offices that the total association increased loans to members from $37 million in 1972 to $52 million in 1973, an increase of 40 per cent.

Robert A. Wright, president of the association, reported to the advisory group that monies available for farming looked favorable and after several months of increased money cost nationally, there was a downward turn in money cost in February. The association projects the credit needs of local members will exceed $56 million in 1974, Wright reported, large amounts of which will be used for fertilizer income tax and farm equipment.

The association paid federal and state income taxes of $10,722 in 1973 and paid $7,071.70 in dividends to members holding "A" stock, which is non-voting stock.

David E. Blanton, Sikeston attorney, spoke on estate planning. He gave the group, in general terms, an example of how a farmer's financial situation in Southeast Missouri will be handled as to probated, and the use of a will. He presented the good and bad points of trusts, gifts and corporations as they may relate to farming.

The meal was served by the United Methodist Women.

Globe says Hahn tried to get officials fired

JEFFERSON CITY--- A powerful Jefferson City oil lobbyist, John Hahn, formerly of Sikeston, reportedly tried to get "some people...fired" in the state motor fuel tax section after officials of the section began trying to plug suspection information leaks thought to be helping the lobbyist's surety bond business.

The information was reported by Les Pearson, a staff writer, in the St. Louis Globe- Democrat today following an investigation by the paper.

Hahn, of the Missouri Oil Jobbers Association, has a sideline business of selling surety bonds to motor fuel companies and individuals. The state requires the bonding to guarantee payment of motor fuel taxes.

Officials suspected Hahn was receiving information on companies applying for motor fuel licenses and then soliciting those companies to buy surety bonds from him.

Harold Schuyler, revenue department motor fuel tax manager, said he believes Hahn tried to have Schuyler fired after Schuyler warned his secretary, Mrs. Lorene Scott, about leaking information to Hahn.

She was fired as of last July 31, but officials said the action had nothing to do with the suspected leak. She denied leaking information to Hahn, Schuyler said.

Hahn denied trying to have Schuyler fired. Hahn acknowledged, however, talking to revenue director James R. Spradling several months ago "about certain practices and improvements....I didn't have anybody specific in mind."

Spradling said Hahn told him "some people ought to be fired" in the motor fuel section, but did not mention names

But Spradling told the Globe- Democrat, "I am not susceptible to pressure from anyone. I'm either going to run it or I'm not."

Hahn denied receiving any information from the motor fuel tax section that was not "freely available" to anyone else.

Hahn acknowledged that he had received from the section in 1972 a list of companies required by law to post surety bonds, giving amounts of the bonds, companies writing the bonds and expiration dates. He also received monthly lists of firms applying for licenses, he said.

Schuyler, however, said he can find no record of such lists going to anyone else outside the motor fuel tax office.

An employe still working for the motor fuel tax section, Connie McGinnis, said she had assisted in providing these reports to Hahn and that he was the only person getting such information.

Schuyler said she had asked last summer if she should continue providing information to Hahn, and he told her she should not.

Schuyler said his investigation last summer started after a series of complaints from companies applying for new motor fuel licenses that they had been solicited by Hahn to write surety bonds "almost within hours" after being given application documents.

lawyer, James D. St. Clair, told a court hearing that Nixon also is willing to answer written questions from the committee which is considering impeachment resolutions. St. Clair said Nixon would submit to an oral interview if the committee was not satisfied with the written answers.

At his last news conference, also broadcast live from the East Room on Feb. 25, Nixon gave an optimistic assessment of the energy crunch and, in responding to questions, disclosed the Watergate grand jury had unsuccessfully sought his personal testimony.

At that session Nixon also asserted that criminal wrongdoing was necessary for impeachment of a President and declared, "I do not expect to be impeached."

In the past, months sometimes have elapsed between Nixon news conferences. But late last summer and last fall, Nixon held four news conferences in a period of about two months.

The President has scheduled a nationally televised and broadcast question-and-answer session with members of the National Association of Broadcasters in Houston on March 19.

BAD PREDICTION FOR SLAV SMOKERS

BELGRADE (AP) — Medical experts asserted that about 10,000 Yugoslavs will die this year because of cancer caused by smoking. They said that every sixth smoker dies of cancer and every third dies among those who smoke about 40 cigarettes daily, Belgrade "Nin" Magazine reported.

Piedmont voters pass $500,000 building bond

PIEDMONT, Mo. (AP) — Voters in this Southeast Missouri town passed a $500,000 bond issue Tuesday to build a new industrial building for the St. Louis-based International Hat Co.

Piedmont Mayor Roy Anderson said the building will be the first in a new industrial park and airport complex being planned by the city.

"The idea for this industrial complex was conceived in 1971," Anderson said, "and we're very pleased with its progress."

Anderson said the hat company plans to expand its production facilities with the Piedmont site and will employ 325 workers with an average annual payroll of $1.5 million.

The vote to approve the bond issue was 509-17.

Miner board sets April 2 election date

The Miner town board Tuesday night passed an ordinance setting April 2 for a general election. Deadline for county registration is 7 p.m. today.

Mayor L. F. Wheeler announced a dog vaccination clinic is scheduled from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. March 23 at the fire station. Dr. Sam Hunter of Sikeston will administer the vaccinations. Dog licenses are due April 1.

The board decided not to submit a proposal to purchase Associated Natural Gas Co. facilities from Arkansas - Missouri Power Co. of Blytheville, Ark. at this time.

A discussion on whether to proceed with plans to qualify Miner as a fourth - class city was tabled until after the April 2 election when two vacancies on the town board will be filled. Qualification for a fourth- class city rating is one of the first steps that the town must take if it is to build a proposed sewer system.

Three bids have been recieved on two walkie- talkie units for the police department. Bids were received from RCA, $795; General Electric, $1,896 and Motorola, $1,944. The bids will be submitted to the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council, which will pay 75 per cent of the cost of the units.

More warehouse space available

OFMCO began doing business in a new location Friday at 1209 W. North St. The company, which deals in used office furniture, moved from 527 W. Murray Lane, to this 42,000 square- foot building, which provides twice as much warehouse space for wholesale business and development of a larger retail business.

OFMCO has new location

OFMCO opened for business Friday in a new location at 1209 W. North St. with twice as much warehouse space as it had in the building it formerly occupied at 527 W. Murray Lane.

The company, which deals in large volumes of used office furniture, is primarily a wholesale business, but is developing a wider retail business for shoppers in the area, according to manager Steve Woods.

With 42,000 square feet of floor space at its new location, Woods said OFMCO can now stock more merchandise and develop more retail trade, now that space limitation have been overcome.

Woods also explained that the move was made because the company has recently acquired more customers from Midwestern and Southern states.

The company carries many items, including credenzas, safes, desks, swivel chairs, filing cabinets, work tables, tables and side chairs.

"To our knowledge we are the only company in the United States that handles such a large volume of used office furniture," Woods said. He explained that the items stocked by the company are usually of high quality offered at discount prices.

The three-year - old company is owned by Don Lowe, 512 N. Kingshighway. With another warehouse in New York City, OFMCO has 90,000 square feet of storage space and operates eight over-the- road tractor - trailer units and one eight- passenger airplane.

Telephone cable cuts pose threat

In addition to warmer weather, lots of sunshine and turning everything green, spring also brings an unusual danger to all communities. That's the danger of a possible communications isolation that could result if buried telephone cables are severed.

"In the spring, a lot of people start digging," said Southwestern Bell manager Mike Smith. "Road improvements, new houses, projects involving trenching and sometimes even large gardens pose a threat to buried telephone cable.

"Unfortunately, most people will begin digging without checking with the phone company to see if there is buried cable in the vicinity," he said. "Builders and contractors can locate any underground cables quickly and at no cost by simply calling the Operator."

Smith said that before any digging or trenching is begun, a person should call the Operator and ask for Enterprise 9800.

"Every spring we can expect to have one or two cable cuts in the area from ambitious diggers," he said. "Sometimes this cuts off telephone service for just a few residents, sometimes for an entire section of town and sometimes an entire community is left without Long Distance service. We have been fortunate that emergencies during these telephone service interruptions have been rare.

"I don't think anyone would knowingly cut a cable and thereby cut off peoples' telephone service, but it happens," Smith said. "A quick telephone call can avoid the entire situation."

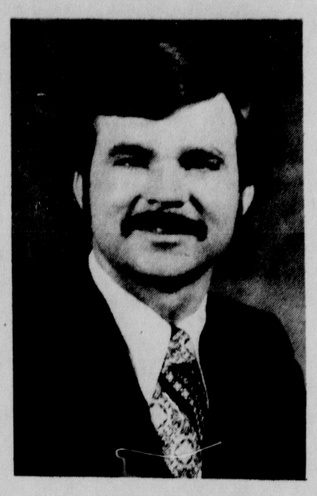
Agent breaks records; makes international club

HOUSTON, Tex --Hank Hough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Hough of Charleston, Mo., has broken Prudential Insurance Co. records by writing over $2 million worth of insurance during his first year in the business.

In doing so, he qualified for the company's prestigious International Honor Club and became a vice president of the company's Leader's Roundtable.



Hank Hough

Hough, who became the company's 1973 Man of the Year in Houston, is the first district agent in the Southwestern region to write over $2 million of business in his first year.

In Charleston High School, Hough was a member of the honor society and the student council, a class office, each year, football, track and wrestling captain, president of the band and glee clubs and received the Marshall Award, which is presented the most outstanding all -around student over a four -year period.

Hough graduated among the top students in his class at the University of Missouri -Columbia in 1972. He graduated third in his class from officer candidate school in the army and was selected on academic merit to serve in the Pentagon at staff level, the first second lieutenant to be chosen for this duty.

Hough's wife, the former Vicki Anderson, a native Missourian, taught for a brief time in the Charleston public school stystem.

Inspecting new history book

Sikeston Junior High School has a new addition to its library, "The Pictoral History of the American Revolution", donated by Security National Bank. Examining the book are W. L. "Buddy" Clayton, junior high principal; Mrs. Polly Hanks, librarian; and Don Agnew, executive vice president of Security National Bank. The bank also donated a copy of the book to the senior high school.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

February 27, 1974
Editor Standard 205 S. New
Madrid Sikeston, Mo. 63801

Dear Editor:

I would like to take issue with a Jack Anderson column that appeared recently in your newspaper. The column claimed industry taxes are much too low, and profits are much too high. In both cases, the charges are unfounded.

On taxes, Anderson cites as evidence a draft study of the oil industry by Ralph Nader. That study would have the public believe that certain oil companies paid only 1.7 per cent and 1.3 per cent of their profits in federal income taxes. Nader uses the old "apple & orange" trick of comparing U.S. income taxes with world-wide income. By so doing, both the study and the column are being less than honest with the public. Any high school student knows you should figure world- wide taxes on world- wide income, or domestic taxes on domestic income.

A recent study by the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, Inc. shows the effective federal income tax rate for the domestic oil industry was 25.6 per cent in 1972. On a world- wide basis, the U. S. oil industry had an effective world- wide income tax rate of 58 per cent in 1972. That is, the total world- wide tax burden of the industry in 1972, was 58 cents out of every dollar of income.

Mr. Anderson attempts to imply that the mineral depletion allowance and the foreign tax credit are "tax breaks" available only to the large oil companies. He knows that virtually all mineral extracting industries have the benefit of the depletion provision. In addition, any American company— or individual- who pays income taxes on foreign earnings can credit foreign tax payments against U. S. taxes. Otherwise, they would be subject to confiscatory double taxation.

Messrs. Anderson and Nader are equally off- base in their comments on taxes and royalties paid to the Saudi Arabians and other Middle-East governments. The fact is that the companies pay both taxes and royalties. They get a credit only for the tax payments (just as in this country) and deduct the royalty payments as an expense (just as in this country).

The Anderson column also misrepresents the oil profit situation. The fact is that oil industry profits are still below the average for all manufacturing companies, despite improvement in 1973. A decade of subnormal returns is one reason exploration for new petroleum reserves has not kept pace with increasing consumer energy needs. The money needed to explore for, produce, refine, and distribute petroleum is enormous- on the order of $50 billion per year. This money must come from private investors and from company profits plowed back into the business. Yet, in the middle of the energy crisis, Mr. Anderson and Mr. Nader seem preoccupied with reducing profits at the very time this money is needed to find more oil and gas for the American people.

Sincerely,
Robert R. Hurt

I particularly enjoyed your hernia sized special edition, Charles. Those people up there in the Boot Heel really believe in progress. I'm sure it was a heavy load getting it into the bank. Also, I particularly enjoyed the story on Petey the Snake. Hang in there, Chuck.

Ben

Dear Mr. Blanton

As of your editorial in the March 1 edition of your paper you made the comment strikers should not receive food stamps I am the wife of a striker and I feel that you are way off base. For one thing, I am not receiving Food Stamps as many others are not. Those receiving are mostly large families. Do you suggest that they (the children, go hungry due to a strike? These laborers as you call them have had large amounts held out for taxes to feed our welfare cadillacs. None of us plan on remaining on the Food Stamp list.

You strike me as being for Noranda Alum. Corp. Are they a big subscribers??

Most of these strikers, like my husband, are just guys trying to make a good living for their families.

Why not spend a week in the Pot room, Rod mill or working in Thermon oil before you comment on our wage negotiations.

Not too long ago a young man, excuseme, I mean laborer, was blown off a fork lift in an explosion of hot alum, coming in contact with moisture. He'll carry a scar the rest of his life — is any salary worth the risk of losing your life. Several of us "cotton pickers" and "pig farmers" are carrying alum. burn scars, several of which could have put out an eye or even or even worse, in some cases did!

Several unions have high wage scales due to the risk involved in their jobs — Noranda should be on the list.

If there are any other "striker wives" out there — what do you say? I think we should stand behind our husbands all the way. They need our help and encouragement.

Dear Charlie:

Have finished looking through that Progress Edition very carefully, and you really did put out an edition. Certainly was good work all the way and my compliments to the little girls and boys who "helped" you.

Know that you couldn't have done all that by yourself.

And has your cashier's arm recovered from ringing up the cash register?

Very well done.

Hoped to get to the spring meeting of the AP but haven't found out yet when or even if there is to be one. Think the best thing to do would be write Moen and thank him for the invitation, please when I am going to get it.

But even if there isn't one, know you must have some business up here. Even with a 55- mile- an = hour speed limit.

Would sure like to hear Charlie's comment on that said Sammie. Don't write it, however.

And if you do get here, you know where we are and will expect to hear from you.

Thanks again for the edition. Sammie joins me in saying Hello.

Believe me,

Youngster accidentally shot

CLARKTON — A 12-year - old Clarkton boy was treated and released at Dunklin County Memorial Hospital Saturday, following an accidental shooting at a friend's home.

Dunklin County Deputy Sheriff Juston Huggins withheld the name of the 10 - year - old youth who accidentally shot young Terry Oswald, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Oswald. The boy was shot above the right knee with a .22 - caliber pistol.

Huggins said the shooting occurred while the two youths were playing with a gun.

He said the gun belonged to an uncle, who told the boy it was just a toy and had left it in a box under the seat of his car.

The two boys were fooling around with it when it accidentally discharged, striking the Oswald boy in the leg, Huggins said.

Students call for 'streak for impeachment'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A group of University of Pennsylvania students has called for a "streak for impeachment" April 1 around the White House.

They say they are hoping to convince President Nixon to "lay bare the facts" about Watergate.

Streaking, or running nude through public places, has popped up at numerous campuses of late.

"It's time for President Nixon to lay bare the facts and give us the naked truth," Paul Matthias of Penn said Monday in disclosing plans for the "streak for impeachment" on April Fool's day. He said other Ivy League schools would be asked to take part.

Matthias is the vice chairman of student government at Penn. He calls himself a veteran streaker, although he says he's given up the practice.

Matthias, from Morrisville, N.Y., didn't say what would happen if April 1 is cold and rainy.

SeMo U. couple win dance meet

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A Southeast Missouri State University couple, Miss Geri Houdak and Art O'Connor, won the 52-hour "Dance For Strength" marathon, which ended in St. Louis Sunday night.

They will each receive a motorcycle for staying on their feet the longest and for prompting the most pledges for the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation.

The marathon, which was sponsored by St. Louis radio station KSD, raised more than $13,000 for the foundation.

Of the 12 couples who began the marathon at the Chase Park-Plaza Hotel Friday afternoon, only six remained when the music stopped at 8 p.m. Sunday.

"Ah, it's been great, but I'll never do this again," said one girl.

The second place couple, also from Southeast Missouri State, was Vera White and Jim Kimker. They will receive 10-speed bicycles.

The top two couples will compete in a national MS dance marathon in April at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

We have not a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sinning. (Hebrews 4:15)

PRAYER: Lord, grant that the temptations that assail us may never find a welcome within our hearts. In the name of the Christ, who was tempted as we are, yet was ever without sin. Amen.

What's the law?

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A federal statute authorized the secretary of agriculture, in management of forests, to issue rules "to regulate their occupancy and use." One rule, which was duly posted, prohibited indecent exposure in national parks. Consequently, when Ella and Paul decided to go skinnydipping one hot afternoon in a national park, they were promptly arrested for violating the rule.

"We caught them splashing around like two children of nature," testified two forest rangers in court.

"And why not?" questioned the two skinnydippers. "We were in a place of nature and there's nothing more natural than swimming in the nude.

"As for the secretary of agriculture, his authority was intended to protect the forests from destruction. Our swimming in no way constituted a threat to the forests. His rule relating to indecent exposure was beyond his authority and, consequently, we can't be convicted of violating it.'.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict the skinnydippers of violating the rule against indecent exposure?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the power to regulate the "occupancy and use" of land includes the authority to formulate rules concerning the conduct of people using that land. And, concluded the judge, skinnydipping in a national park constitutes indecent exposure which was prohibited.

Funerals unnecessarily expensive, says survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Trade Commission study released Thursday depicted grieving funeral buyers as captive consumers who spend hundreds of dollars more than necessary.

The staff study said people don't shop funeral homes because they are usually grief stricken and because funeral homes rarely advertise prices.

The study said customers often aren't told cheaper funerals are available or certain services can be waived.

Morticians sometimes misinform customers that such things as embalming are leagally required, it said. And the morticians charge up to $200 just for cremation, even though the crematory charge is no more than $75, it said.

"The funeral industry is characterized by a lack of price competition, a lack of price competition, a lack of consumer information and ultimately — on the bottom line — a lack of consumer choice," said J. Thomas Rosch, head of the commission's bureau of consumer protection.

Although the survey covered only the 55 funeral homes in the Washington area, "the results are in general accord with a number of other cost studies and estimates from around the country," the study said.

Rosch said the commission is studying ways to provide more information to funeral shoppers and make the industry more competitive.

The study estimated the cost of a typical funeral and burial at $1,886 complete.

The commission asked the area's funeral homes for the prices of their three cheapest funerals and found that the cost of the very cheapest ranged from $210 to $900.

The average price of funerals sold during 1973 ranged from $500 to $1,830. None of the prices included burial costs, which added $488 to the typical funeral.

The staff study said that the quality of goods and services varies from one mortician to another, but added a qualifier: Someone who buys an expensive funeral also pays more for identical services provided for cheaper funerals.

The staff said that of the 55 mortuaries surveyed, 15 have no price display of any kind in their establishment.

COOKING-UP

By NADINE TOWNSEND

NEW MADRID — I can't promise that you will save pennies by baking your own bread, but I can promise you won't be disappointed if you try any one of the recipes in today's column. The batter type — without yeast — are quick and easy, and although the yeast breads require a little more time, the results are worth it!

Two spicy applesauce breads, one with mincemeat and the other with chopped walnuts, can be stirred up in a hurry. They are excellent for making in advance and storing in the freezer.

For a sharp and tangy flavor, onion and cheese are teamed in a cornbread to add the perfect accompaniement for a stew or casserole.

The orange- carrot bread is delicious eaten plain, toasted or made into sandwiches. The recipe makes two loaves, and it's a good thing, too, for one loaf will disappear quickly.

Rising time for the streamlined white bread is only one- third what it used to be and there's no kneading or shaping. There's just nothing quite like the aroma and taste of homemade bread fresh from the oven. Mmmm -- think I'll make a loaf right now ...

APPLESAUCE-MINCEMEAT LOAF

½ cup shortening
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs
2½ cups sifted all- purpose flour
2 tsps double- acting baking powder
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. allspice
¼ tsp. cloves
1 cup canned applesauce
1 cup moist mincemeat

Cream shortening with sugar. Add eggs, beat until light and smooth. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Add to shortening mixture alternately with applesauce, mixing well after each addition. Carefully fold in mincemeat.

Pour into 9 x 5 inch loaf pan which has been greased on bottom only.

Bake at 350 degrees for one hour or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pan 15 minutes then remove from pan and finish cooling on rack. bread may be prepared in advance, wrapped in foil and frozen.

PENNSYLVANIA APPLESAUCE BREAD

2 cups sifted all- purpose flour
1 tsp. double- acting baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ cup butter or shortening
¾ cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs
1 cup applesauce (fresh or canned)
½ cup walnuts, chopped

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, soda, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cream butter and add sugar gradually, creaming well. Add vanilla and eggs; beat well

Blend in dry ingredients gradually; mix thoroughly. Add applesauce and walnuts; mix only until blended.

Pour into well- greased 9x5x3 inch pan. Push batter up into corners of pan, leaving the center slightly hollowed. For well- rounded loaf, allow to stand 20 minutes before baking.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 55 to 60 minutes. Cool thoroughly before slicing.

ONION-CHEESE BREAD

3 tbsp. soft-type margarine
1½ cups chopped onion
1 cup unsifted all purpose flour
1 cup plain white cornmeal
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. parsley flakes
1/3 cup soft- type margarine
1 egg
1 cup milk
½ cup grated, sharp cheddar cheese

Heat three tablespoons of soft- type margarine in small skillet. Add onion and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally for 10 minutes, or until tender.

Mix flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt, parsley and two tablespoons of the sauteed onions in a mixing bowl. Cut in one- third cup of soft- type margarine until mixture is like coarse meal. Make depression in center. Beat egg and milk together and add to flour mixture. Stir until moistened.

Spread in 8x8x2 inch or 9x9x2 inch baking pan that has been coated with soft- type margarine. Spoon remaining onions over top and sprinkle with grated cheese.

Bake at 425 degrees for 30 minutes for eight- inch pan, or 20 minutes for nine- inch pan, until top is golden brown.

Turn out of pan and quickly turn right side up. Cut in squares and serve hot. (To reheat wrap bread in foil and heat in 400- degree oven for 15 minutes.) Makes nine to 12 squares.

ORANGE-CARROT BREAD

2 pkgs. active dry yeast
1 cup warm water
2 tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnaomon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. allspice
1 egg, beaten
3 tbsp. soft butter or margarine
2/3 cup lukewarm orange juice
2 tbsp. grated orange peel
6 to 6½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, divided
1 cup seedless raisins
1½ cups grated carrots, at room temperature

Sprinkle yeast on warm water stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt, spices, egg, butter, orange juice and peel. Stir in three cups of the flour. Beat until smooth. Add raisins and carrots; blend well

Gradually add enough remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board; knead until smooth, about five to eight minutes.

Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft until double in bulk (about one hour).

Divide in half shape each half into a loaf. Place each loaf in greased 9 x 5 x 3 inch loaf pan. Cover; let rise in a warm place until doubled (about one hour).

Bake at 400 degrees about 35 to 40 minutes, or until done. Remove from pan; cool on rack. Makes two loaves.

STREAMLINED WHITE BREAD

1¼ cups warm water
1 pkg. active dry yeast
2 tbsp. soft shortening
2 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. sugar
3 cups sifted all purpose flour

In mixing bowl dissolve yeast in water. Add shortening, salt, sugar and half the flour. Beat two minutes at medium mixer speed or 300 vigorous strokes by hand. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl frequently. Add remaining flour and blend in with spoon until smooth.

Scrape batter from sides of bowl, cover with cloth, let rise in warm place (85 degrees) about 30 minutes. Then beat batter about 25 strokes and spread it evenly in greased loaf pan, 9 x 5 x 3 inches. Smooth top and pat into shape with floured hand.

Let rise again (at 85 degrees) until batter reaches one inch from top of pan (about 40 minutes). Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bake 45 to 50 minutes until brown. Remove from pan, place on cooling rack. Brush top with melted butter or shortening. Cool before cutting.

For a savory herb bread, just follow same recipe as for white bread above, except add 1 teaspoon of caraway seeds, one- half teaspoon of nutmeg and one- half teaspoon of powdered sage with first addition of flour.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

And you think you've got troubles! I just recently purchased a washing machine, and Thursday when I got ready to use it it wouldn't run. I called the dealer and immediately the service man arrived, fixed it and left. I washed my clothes, but then at the end of the cycle it wouldn't spin, I called again, again he arrived, and finally after 2 hours took the machine back to the shop. I then (my washroom is upstairs on the second floor) went up and proceeded to clean behind and under where the washer had been, and noticed a lot of water in the steel pan the washer sits in, but thought that that was a result of the washer being taken out, so thought no more about it and just mopped it up. Friday morning dawned and I discovered water to the brim in my pan, so I bailed like crazy, when in comes my friend with a washer with all new parts (I told him the silly thing had committed suicide doing my clothes), but, I need a plumber for my something or other has sprung a leak. I call a plumber and he arrives, my washer people leave while he's there working, he leaves, they come back and replace the washer, and the faucet leaks again. I again call the plumber, he comes, and they leave for lunch while he toils over the leak. He leaves, they return and put in the washer and leave and now I find I leak sorta in a new spot. I go to the phone and again call the plumber and my phone which has been acting up for weeks and for which I've had the phone man out here 3 times for to no avail, acts up again, so after screaming my message at the plumber, I again call the telephone office and report the dumb phone. Fifteen minutes later I have the plumber back, the washer people back checking out the washer, and the telephone man working on my phones which are (as always when he comes) as clear as a bell. Well thank goodness (I didn't want him to think I was making this all up and having him out here just because he was cute or something) the plumber told him how bad my connection to him had been and my sister-in-law walked in and told him how awful my phones were, in fact, she even went home and dialed here twice and made him talke to her a long time on different phones to see if it wouldn't go bad — it didn't. It worries me for fear of what the neighbors are now beginning to think of me with all these men going in and out in shifts Now they all leave again, the washer fixed, the leak stopped, and the phone still not working. Fine, and I refuse to even go near the laundry room, but by Monday morning when I could no longer shut the door for all the dirty clothes I relented and threw a load in and guess what — the washer wouldn't drain out the water and the leak was back and the phones were going clack - clack - clack!!!!! Well, the washer people came out and discovered all was wrong was a pinched hose, and the plumber came out and (fingers crossed) fixed the leak and so I heaved a sigh of relief, threw in another load of clothes and again guess what — no hot water will fill the washer, so now I'm waiting for the plumber again and again and again. Oh well things could be worse. My sister-in-law has been trying to redo her bedroom, and after waiting 2 weeks to get the plaster patched and have it wallpapered, she finally did, cleaned up the mess, called the rug cleaner to do her carpet so she could move into it spotless, and when he left all the fresh wallpaper fell off the wall and took most of the plaster with it. Cie la vie!!!

Pork Marinade makes terrific shishkabobs.

PORK MARINADE

2 lbs. pork cubes
¾ cup wine vinegar
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup pineapple juice concentrate
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon salt

Simmer all ingredients 15 minutes. Pour marinade over cubes of pork, cover and refrigerate overnight. Turn meat or stir once or twice. When ready to cook, thread pork cubes and vegetables on skewers. Broil about 20 to 30 minutes, or until pork cubes are done. Brush often with the marinade. Serves 6. Use vegetables and fruits to suit your own tastes, such as canned sweet potatoes, green pepper, small whole onions, pineapple chunks, zucchini squash. Choose vegetables and fruits that will combine well with the flavor of the marinade.

Nixon may reveal end of embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will hold a nationally televised and broadcast news conference at 7:30 p.m. EDT today, the White House announced.

Timing of the surprise news conference — Nixon's second in nine days — heightened speculation the President would announce steps toward ending the Arab oil embargo.

But Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, in announcing the East Room session with reporters, said: "I cannot predict whether the President will have an announcement this evening."

Nixon often opens his news conferences with major announcements, and tonight's session was scheduled amid reports that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger brought back from the Middle East this week assurances that the embargo would soon be lifted.

The news conference also comes amid a flurry of developments in the Watergate case.

The President informed the House Judiciary Committee he will give it all the material he already has turned over to the Watergate grand jury "without limitation."

Boy, 13, dies of injuries from scuffle at school

Danny Keith Kersey, 13 - year - old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kersey, Route Four, died Tuesday afternoon of head injuries he received in a scuffle at Sikeston Junior High School, where he was an eighth grade student.

Young Kersey died in an ambulance en route to a Memphis hospital.

Principal W. L. "Buddy" Clayton said the incident occurred about 2 p.m. in the gymnasium prior to the start of the sixth hour physical education class.

Clayton said he was still checking with students to find out exactly what happened, but that the incident appears to have been a case of horseplay between students. Apparently, it was a shoving match "like kids do," Clayton said.

He said another student shoved Kersey, who fell to the floor and struck his head.

After receiving the blow to his head, Kersey went to see the school nurse, who examined him and could find nothing wrong, Clayton said. Kersey then asked to go back to class and the nurse permitted him to do so.

When he got back to class, Clayton said he again looked sick and Coach Al Holmes told him to get dressed and go back to the nurse.

The parents were called and they took the boy to the Ferguson Medical Group Clinic, where he was examined by a doctor and sent to Memphis.

Clayton said he was not sure who started the shoving match. He said no one realized how serious the situation was until after school had dismissed for the day. However, he said he planned to talk to the students about the incident today.

Kersey was born May 8, 1960 in Sikeston.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Clary of Sikeston; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mina Kersey of Sikeston; maternal great- grandfather, Homer Brewer of Sikeston; and paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Ruby Asher of Sikeston.

The body is at Nunnelee Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

Brewer named police chief at Advance

ADVANCE — The City Council Tuesday night voted to appoint Danny Brewer as chief of police and to hire Herman Hebenstriet as deputy policeman.

Mayor Barney Beecraft declared two vacancies on the board of aldermen, and April 2 was set as the date of the city election, at which time the vacancies will be filled.

The vacancies are aldermen for wards one and two.

The deadline for candidates to file for the offices was set on March 22.

2 policemen suspended

PORTAGEVILLE — Two city police officers, Roy Hurley and John Stevens Jr., were suspended Tuesday for one week without pay following a unanimous vote by the City Council Monday night, according to Mayor Barry Richardson.

Richardson cited neglect of duties for the suspension and added that although the officers had been told repeatedly that the police cars were not to leave town, the council had information the men had been leaving the city to drink coffee at a Marston service station and cafe.

Williams to speak at Head Start meeting

PORTAGEVILLE--- Dr. Kenton Williams of Kansas City, regional director of the Office of Child Development, will be principal speaker at a 7:30 p.m. meeting Thursday at the Portageville Head Start Center.

The center is located at the former bowling alley building near Big John's Drive- In in Portageville.

Other representatives of the Office of Child Development, Region VII, Health, Education and Welfare of Kansas City will also be present.

The meeting will provide area residents who are interested in the future of the Head Start Program for Southeast Missouri with first hand information from program executives.

Escapee's freedom ends with arrest in Arkansas

Franklin David McIntosh, 19, of Winchester, Ky., who escaped custody from the Sikeston City Courtroom Tuesday during Magistrate Court proceedings was apprehended at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night in Mississippi County, Arkansas.

McIntosh, who walked out of the courtroom, reportedly stole a 1961 station wagon owned by Mary Poyner at 11:40 a.m. at the Kingsway Plaza Shopping center and drove to New Madrid where he abandoned the automobile and stole a 1967 mustang owned by Joe Hunter of New Madrid. Police said they did not know if he drove the car to Arkansas.

He is being held in a jail in Osceola and, according to Scott County Sheriff John Dennis, extradition proceedings will begin today.

He was scheduled to appear before Judge Lloyd Briggs Tuesday in connection with the Nov. 23, 1973 armed robbery of the Quick Shop on South Main Street.

McIntosh had just returned from Farmington last week where he had undergone a mental examination.

He is also wanted by federal authorities for parole violation, two counts of car theft and possession of firearms. He is wanted in Kentucky on two counts of armed robbery, escaping from custody, grand larceny, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and underage possession of alcohol. He is also wanted by police in Virginia for seven counts of armed robbery.

Woman found shot to death

EAST PRAIRIE — Mrs. Thurman Moriarity of 210 S. Martin St. died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound about 9 a.m. today, according to Mississippi County Coroner Elgin McMikle.

McMikle said Mrs. Moriarity died instantly after firing a single shot from a .38 caliber pistol into the left side of her chest.

No inquest will be held.

Mrs. Moriarity was found shortly after 9 a.m. in a small building behind her home by her daughter Miss Rhonda Moriarity, who lives across the street from her parents.

McMikle said that according to family members, Mrs. Moriarity had been in ill health and had been depressed for some time.

Her body was taken to Shelby Funeral Home.

$1,350 worth of tools stolen

Burglars took $1,350 worth of tools from the Agrico Chemical Inc. plant, 1600 W. Malone Ave., between 5 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. today, police reported today.

A drill press weighing between 200 and 300 pounds was taken, along with a number of electric grinders, two tool boxes and a large number of tools, police said.

2 arrested in theft

Police arrested two men for the burglary of the Kathy Schoney residence, 917 Tanner, about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Ronnie Jackson, 21, of 626 Murray Lane and Allen Wheeler, 20, of St. Louis, were arrested at 11:15 p.m. at King Arthur Lounge in the Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Miss Schoney told police she was lying in bed when one of the two men crawled in through her window and took a portable television set from the living room.

She said she could see into the living room from the bedroom and recognized the man in the house.

The television set was valued at $368.

Police also announced the arrests of David Anthony Matthews, 207 E. Center, for cashing bogus checks and Bobby Joe Lambert, 410 Sunset Drive, careless and imprudent driving.

Malden man injured

GLENNONVILLE — A Malden man was injured in a one- vehicle accident at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday two miles east of here on Route J, according to the highway patrol.

Jerry Mack Leathers, 22, received minor injuries when the right front tire of his ton and a half truck blew out, causing the vehicle to overturn.

Leathers was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Play promises laugh night

By TIM LUDWIG

Sikeston Little Theatre's latest offering, "My Three Angels", will be presented nightly Thursday through Saturday at 8 o'clock in Sikeston Activity Center.

The three-act comedy is about a French family living near a prison colony in South America and three convicts who come to their aid when Christmas descends with more problems than happiness.

The family consists of Felix, a businessman who trusts too much; Emilie, his practical wife and Marie Louise, their love-struck daughter.

When a letter arrives from France saying that Uncle Henri, the owner of the business, and his nephew Paul — who is Marie Louise's love interest — are coming for a visit, the convicts decide to take a hand to help straighten out the family's problems.

The problems are this: Paul, the boy whom Marie Louise loves, is engaged to marry another girl back in France as sort of a business deal and has lost his love for anything but money; and Uncle Henri, who is a tyranical owner that will surely react badly to Felix's policy of trust and credit.

The convicts, who have been working on the roof of the family's house learn of the problems and decide to help in their own highly unorthodix method.

The methods eventually include matchmaking that doesn't work at all, juggling of books, larceny, forgery and finally the use of a fourth member of their troupe, Adolf, who solves all of the problems by eliminating the sources.

Adolf, by the way, isn't an official cast member. Those of you who are lucky enough to see "My Three Angels" will find out who he is and what kind of "pal" he is to the three convicts.

Cast members for the three- act romp are Jim Wenneker Lynelle Dupont, JoEllen Felker, Teresa Terrell, F. X. Schumacher III, Tony Heckemery, Jamie Terrell, the Rev. Paul D. Walker, Larry Hightower and Bill Stevens.

A dress rehearsal Tuesday night indicated all cast members will do a fine job of putting on an extremely funny performance.

It's a good show and a good time with a group that knows how to bring out a laugh (sometimes even from themselves), so see it if you can.

Director Sandra A. York and the Sikeston Little Theatre crew will earn your laughs for this one.

Senate may act Thursday on bill for extra judge

JEFFERSON CITY — A bill containing an amendment to add another judge to the Springfield Court of Appeals may be acted upon in the state Senate Thursday.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Nelson B. Tinnin, Democrat of Hornersville, would permit a permanent division of the court to be located in Southeast Missouri.

Tinnin says he prefers Poplar Bluff as the site of the appeals court division, since offices and a library have already been established there. The Poplar Bluff division would include Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Stoddard, Dunklin, Pemiscot and Butler counties.

Tinnin is seeking the division at the request of Appeals Judge William H. Billings of Springfield. Billings asked for the division

Reinstatement of death penalty favored

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Reinstatement of the death penalty, no-fault auto insurance, retention of the Sunday blue laws and ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment were favored by most of the people answering a poll taken this month by Rep. Gary Rust, R-Cape Girardeau.

Rust distributed 9,800 questionnaires in his district and compiled results after getting 1,159 answers.

Reinstatement of the death penalty was favored by 946 persons, or 81 per cent. Some form of no-fault auto insurance was favored by 812 or 70 per cent.

The so-called blue law against sales of certain products on Sundays received 539, or 47 per cent, for repeal and 559, or 48 per cent, against repeal.

Lowering the age of majority (legal age) to 18 was opposed by 671, or 58 per cent.

Rust quoted the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which failed in the Missouri legislature last year and has made little progress this year:

"Equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex."

Answering yes were 657, or 65.5 per cent, against 396 no votes.

Sixty-six per cent, or 772, were opposed to state aid to non-public schools, and 64 per cent cent, or 803, favored a right-to-work law.

A proposal to exempt food and drugs from sales tax favored by 846, or 73.8 per cent. Whether newsmen's sources should be protected by a shield law drew 577 against and 414 for.

Over half, or 596, opposed raising the limit on long-term loan interest rates from 8 to 10 per cent.

Over half answering the poll favored legalized abortions, legalized gambling, no change in the two-thirds vote requirement for most bond issues, and unionization for school teachers and public employes such as policemen and firefighters.

However, while majorities favored collective bargining for public employes, a majority opposed giving them the right to strike.

Sixty-one per cent, 709, said they thought Gov. Christopher S. Bond was doing a good job, 12 per cent said no and 27 per cent were undecided about the legislature, with 478, or 41.8 per cent saying they were undecided.

Saying legislators were doing a good job were 409 persons, while 258 said no.

A PAY RAISE FOR CONGRESS

In submitting his $300 billion budget to Congress on February 4, President Nixon inciuded a proposal to increase the salaries of top Federal workers, including members of Congress. Under the plan, congressional salaries — already $42,500 annually — would go to $45,700 in March, $49,000 next year, and $52,800 in 1976.

Unless Congress vetoes the pay hike proposal by today, it automatically will go into effect. We believe the plan, in its present form, should be vetoed.

At the same time, we admit there are these good aspects to a proposal for higher congressional salaries: Salaries should be substantial enough to attract into politics the best men and women our country can produce. Any built-in insurance against a betrayal of public trust should be welcomed. Finally, although the 535 members of Congress already make considerably more than most of us, it is true they haven't had a raise in five years.

We remain convinced, however, that the bad aspects of the proposal outweigh the good. First, the current high cost of living — which is attributable in good measure to the spendthrift ways of Congress — makes the proposal a bitter pill to swallow.

Second, we believe that at a time when belt tightening is the order of the day for most Americans, a substantial salary increase for congressmen and other top Federal officials sets a very poor example. Many other citizens will be asked to scale down their salary demands this year and Congress should lead the way.

Our biggest objection to the plan, however, is its "automatic" provision. If it is not canceled by Congress, members will automatically receive pay increases through 1976 regardless of performance, the public mood, or the health of the economy.

We believe that as American taxpayers who are, in effect, the stockholders of Congress, we should have the right to insist that pay hikes be based on merit and not on fiat. If Congress is really serious about curbing inflation, let it begin here by vetoing this pay raise proposal and substituting in its place a more reasonable scheme.

YESTERDAY'S
MIDNIGHT RIDERS

At one time, every school child was expected to know the story of "Paul Revere's Ride" as immortalized by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Paul Revere was the midnight rider of the Revolutionary War who rode out of Boston to carry the message that the British were coming to attack the villages of Lexington and Concord.

The American Legion Magazine carries a fascinating story by Mr. Tom Mahoney about the "Night Riders of the American Revolution." Paul Revere was but one of these riders. Others were John Jouett and a 16- year- old girl Sybil Ludington. Paul Revere will be forever remembered in the pages of early American history -- thanks to Longfellow's popular poem. A little- known fact recorded by Mr. Mahoney is that the family name of Paul Revere lives today as a substantial national corporation -- Revere Copper and Brass, Incorporated. In the words of the Legion magazine, "Nobody would be more delighted than Paul Revere to know that two centuries since ihis time the silverware fashioned in Boston by himself and his father is widely imitated, that the originals are treasured as collectors' items ..."

No doubt the descendants of the other night riders of the American Revolution are going about their daily affairs in a country their ancestors founded a short two centuries ago. As nations go, the United States is still young. Paul Revere's ride happened but yesterday.

BUSWAYS SPEED
COMMUTER TRAFFIC

Cities grappling with commuter traffic congestion — and what major city isn't? — are looking at a new idea in public transportation that can be put into action quickly and effectively without spending millions of dollars.

It's the reserving of exclusive lanes for buses along major commuter routes.

One such lane can handle 20,000 passengers an hour, about six to 10 times as many people as can be accommodated by a lane used by private autos, according to The Road Information Program (TRIP), a Washington-based research and information agency supported by the road construction industry.

For example, well over half the commuters on Shirley Highway, the major route into Washington, D.C., from the Virginia suburbs, ride buses that use reserved lanes. Some 15,000 commuters on these buses are saving as much as 30 minutes over people in cars.

In New York, a lane leading to the Lincoln Tunnel has been reserved for buses and carries 35,000 people in 800 buses during the heaviest traffic hours.

Bus lanes are also in operation on the Long Island Expressway in New York, on the San Bernardino Freeway in Los Angeles and on the Southeast Expressway in Boston. On the Oakland Bay Bridge, more than 500 buses carrying 25,000 San Francisco-bound communters use reserved lanes to zip past autos jammed at the toll plaza during the morning rush hours.

In some cities, car pool autos containing three or more persons ware being allowed to use the exclusive lanes on a trial basis.

In addition to improving speed and mobility, says TRIP, the busway idea can reduce air pollution and conserve fuel.

On Virginia's Shirley Highway, approximately 3,000 automobiles were removed from operation during rush periods when the bus lanes were opened. A survey showed that 62 per cent of the Shirley bus riders have cars but prefer to ride the bus.

This is not to say that rail transit lines now being put into operation in some highly congested areas will not be needed. They serve specific needs in heavy travel corridors.

But where flexibility, speed of implementation and low cost are factors, busways appear to be a happy solution to a pressing problem.

"Cook it efficiently" is a new slogan with many energy-conscious homemakers these days. They've found that properly designed utensils, correct cooking temperatures, and better use of ovens can help save the budget as well as fuel.

For example, the size and shape of a baking pan affects the volume and texture. For a delicate browning of cakes, cookies and muffins, a lightweight aluminum pan with a shiny interior and slightly dulled bottom is recommended. But the anodized aluminum pans that have a dull finish are best for pies since they transfer heat quickly and produce a crisp flaky pastry.

A good demonstration of the way aluminum conducts heat quickly is to drive an aluminum spike or nail into a baking potato. You'll cut the baking time in about half

UNDERWAY

When President Nixon announced the consummation of contracts totaling nearly $660 million for construction of new merchant ships including the largest van- type freighters and tankers ever built in this country, the U.S. moved a step closer to reclaiming its heritage as a major maritime nation -- and to the assurance that it will have a commanding presence in world markets and in international trade.

As shipping authorities have stressed, the next priority is adoption of government policies and measures aimed at placing U.S. vessels on an equal competitive footing with foreigh- flag carriers. It should not be forgotten that the $660 million construction program is a joint effort with taxpaying, private enterprise funding more than half of the cost of the ships. The maritime industry will carry an ever- heavier share of the responsibility for the success of the expanding merchant marine. The shipbuilding program initiated by the shipping industry and the federal government is one of the most vital investments in the future this country has ever made -- a fact that will become more evident as our needs for the goods and resources of other lands becomes greater. Administration officials estimage that the 16 new vessels to be built under the contracts will mean 36,000 jobs at shipyards and supply firms and 800 jobs on the ships over the next three years.

In a nation approaching the verge of an energy crisis, the news that the program includes construction of three 265,000-ton supertankers is timely indeed and underlines America's growing dependence upon a strong merchant marine.

RAMPAGING
SAFETY-FIRSTERS

Fifty-one years ago a Chicago economist wrote, "A large part of the critic's strictures on the existing system come down to protests against the individual wanting what he wants instead of what is good for him, of which the critic is to be the judge and the critic does not feel himself called upon even to outline any standards other than his own preferences upon a basis of which judgment is to be passed." Since these words were uttered, consumer protectionism has come into full bloom. The words of the economist half a century ago looked to the future with an uncanny prescience.

Today consumer protectionism has gone to an extreme that threatens continued progress in many fields. One of these is in the development of lifesaving prescription drugs. The U. S. now lags behind other nations in the discovery of new drugs. Regulation has become a cult of safety in which government bureaus, agencies and consumer organizations have wholly lost sight of the need to balance risk against benefit that has been essential to human progress and the evolution of civilized socieites. The philosophy of the "safety-firsters" is devastating. It follows the rule of thumb that no drug should be available to the ill that might place a single life in jeopardy. Under this philosophy, even aspirin is hazardous. It costs pharmaceutical companies incalculable millions of dollars and a decade or more to fight through the red tape of getting a new drug to market even after it has been discovered.

While the safety- firsters pursue their no-risk dogma, the odds are good that perhaps millions of people will suffer illness and death unnecessarily in the decades ahead because of the unavailability of drugs lying stillborn in the pharmaceutical industry's laboratories. As the Chicago economist said 51 years ago, we are living in an age when "... the critic does not feel himself called upon ... to outline any standards other than his own..."

CREATING MORE THAN THEY SOLVE

Maybe we're too old to figure today's problems, but raising and raising the prices of gasoline is supposed to make more of it for all of us. Those who can afford it will drive, but those who don't have the money, will have to stay off the roads. At least that's the way it looks to us. And the Shah of Iran, the big man in one of the oil countries, says it is shipping just as much oil to us as it ever did. Ralph Nader says there is no shortage. But the big oil companies tell us there is.

WINTER CRISIS
AND SPRING

It's beginning to look like we will survive the winter and all the dire predictions of some leaders who were concerned-- rightly-- with the fuel shortages. There was enough fuel to keep us warm. Even now, buds are in evidence on some of the trees and that means that we are not far from spring. It is not uncommon in my area to see freshly plowed ground where the good people will use the good earth to grow those wonderful vegetables that are so nourishing and tasty. The storms of winter shall pass.

In my long career I have seen the nation-- and the world-- go into crises, some even worse than the current energy shortage, but the determination of the people to work out of them prevailed and the crises passed. It does take work along with a constructive attitude. If government restrictions are taken off the wildcatter, he will find the energy. If the restrictions are taken off the farmer, he will produce the food. Both the farmer and the wildcatter are working with the good earth which is still productive.

There is no more beautiful evidence of this productivity than the gardens that are seen in the spring. If you don't make a garden yourself, look at those that your friends and neighbors are working and you will find inspiration. I always had pride in the gardens at my house.

Despair is not a word for the American vocabulary. That includes our thinking on the energy crisis and other problems. Toil and the beauties of nature are great incentives of life. I have just celebrated my 85th year of it. H.L.H.

NEED CAUTION ON THIS DEVELOPMENT

An effort is being made to stop the establishment of a giant hog factory on 5,000 to 10,000 acres of land in Clark County, on the theory that such- a development will damage the individual, private hog farmer.

We believe those opposing it are right, and that such huge, corporation - controlled farming complexes should be outlawed.

If this one is established, and is successful, it will probably eventually lead to establishment of hundreds of others, and in the long run put control of the fat hog market into the hands of a few of the Big Money people instead of those of the home producer.

Right now, we all see every day what has happened in the field of energy because a few huge oil companies got control of the major part of the business. Scarcities have resulted and prices raised unreasonably.

Corporation hog or other types of farming could lead to exactly the same situation in the food business.

None of us want this, and none of us want to be at the mercy of a few wealthy persons who could do the same thing with food that they have done with oil and its by-products.

THE ANTI-UNION
UNION

It would be a wonderful opportunity for some young person with ambition to organize the public into a union which will put up real resistance to what union labor is forcing on the public. And also to take a part in politics like organized labor is doing. Whenever the legislature is in session, we the people need a lobby to represent us with the ability to compete with the liquor and trucking lobbies, and all those others who spend so much time getting our legislators to spend so much of the taxpayers money and to grant so many favors. We'll have to furnish them money and booze to get their job done. Each legislator is supplied with all the beer and liquor he can use for himself or entertaining others, so we read in a St. Louis newspaper. Our lobby might also try to stop the spiraling pay scale of our legislators, who work about three days a week, and only six months a year, usually not getting done until the final few days, and then frequently letting important bills die.

COURT COPS OUT
ON OBSCENITY ISSUE

The U. S. Supreme Court has refused to review or revise or elaborate on its ruling of last June establishing new guidelines for obscenity and returning to local communities more control over pornographic, or allegedly pornographic, materials.

The court rejected without comment not only a number of requests to reconsider its decision but also one by Virginia to clarify just what it meant by the "community standards" test. Are they to be statewide standards or those of every individual city or town or country?

The court remained sphinxlike.

Although at least one film has been ruled obscene by a judge in the Bronx, N. Y., while being acquitted by another judge on Manhattan, we have not yet reached the point where a book or film or magazine is banned and confiscated in one political jurisdiction and is freely available down the street and across the line in the next jurisdiction.

Thanks to the Supreme Court, however, we may be on our way there.

The manager of a movie theater in downtown Boston was recently sentenced to two- and- a- half years in prison for possessing and exhibiting a film whose advertisements are deemed fit enough to print by as respectiable a newspaper as the New York Times.

Now there is nothing new about someone going to jail in one state for doing something which is perfectly legal - or less illegal - in another state. At one time, before the harsher laws were softened, punishments for use or possession of marijuana ranged from a small fine to life imprisonment.

Every state has its own gambling laws. The control of intoxicating beverages is an excellent example of the principle of local option at work.

Why can't it be the same with pornography?

The trouble is that neither marijuana smoking nor gambling — nor for that matter most other human activities — are specifically mentioned or protected by the U. S. Constitution. As for the other example, in repealing Prohibition, Congress established that it is up to the discretion of the several states to permit or prohibit the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages.

Films, books and magazines on the other hand are forms of expression which fall under the wide purview of the First Amendment; and if it be objected that the Amendment was certainly never intended to protect obscenity, neither does it prohibit it.

In any event, who is to define what is obscene in each and every circumstance? That is, and always will be, the agonizing question.

Freedom of expression is much too essential a part of freedom itself to be left simply to 'local option,'' especially as the zealous pursuit of what is considered obscene at a given time and in a given place so often leads to the prosecution of the socially and artistically worthy products of the human mind as well as the unworthy.

The Supreme Court cannot drop this kind of time bomb and walk away from the consequences. It must provide the country with better guidance in this matter than it has.

HOSTAGE TO INERTIA

The president of the National Association of Motor Bus Owners in commenting upon the Surface Transportation Act now pending in Congress made a timely observation when he said nearly everyone would agree that: "the future of surface transportation will be shaped substantially by the scope and intensity of economic regulation."

The Surface Transportation Act is strongly supported by all major forms of surface common carrier transportation who see it as the measure most likely to restore competitive equality to transportation thus removing the threat of nationalization. A government take- over of basic segments of the transportation industry would cost taxpayers untold billions of dollars undermine the private enterprise system as we have known it in this country and provide no solution to the economic troubles of transportation.

Recent rate hearings forcefully illustrate a phase of the regulatory bind that is breaking the back of the rails. The hearings involved selective freight rate increases that would produce an additional $489 million in revenue each year while the rail industry, in taxes and wages alone, is incurring added expenses at the rate of $1.6 billion per year. Spokesmen for the railroads testified at the hearing that the industry "cannot afford further delay" in putting rate increases into effect. They also emphasized that the increases would not be enough to meet the railroads' pressing needs.

Consumers, the shipping public, rail managements and investors -- the entire nation -- are now hostage to the regulatory and congressional deliberations deciding the fate of the railroads and the transportation industry. The old saying that progress depends upon keeping the wheels turning is literally true in the case of the railroads. Every community and every home in the nation depend upon the turning wheels of the Iron Horse.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Probe American Legion For White House Ties

WASHINGTON-- The Watergate prosecutors have been investigating, of all groups, the American Legion on suspicion that the White House used legionnaires to stand up to left- wing demonstrators.

To the bewilderment of National Adjutant William Hauck, who has been a determinedly nonpartisan friend of presidents since 1952, he was called in for interrogation by the prosecutors.

Hauck duly appeared before a stern, young lawyer named Nick Ackerman who, ironically, won the American Legion "Voice of Democracy" award at high school in 1965. Ackerman wanted to know whether the White House had tried to get the legion to bus in members for the funeral of J. Edgar Hoover.

The prosecutors apparently thought the White House tried to recruit legionnaires to square off with left- wing demonstrators at the funeral, thereby stirring up sentiment against President Nixon's enemies on the left. It's known that the Cuban Watergate burglary team was sent to squabble with the demonstrators.

The long- suffering Hauck was also interrogated about the legion's history and its stand on the Pentagon Papers case. He was even questioned, astonishingly, about the White House tapes.

Hauck confided to us that he was "dumbfounded" at the questioning. Nevertheless, he patiently denied that the White House had contacted the legion about the Hoover funeral or meddled in legion policies.

He also checked with other top legionnaires and wrote a private letter to Ackerman, stating they also had received no call "urging the influx of busloads of American Legionnaires to attend Mr. Hoover's funeral."

At the Watergate Special Prosecutor's office, a spokesman said it was "absolutely wrong" to say the legion was under investigation. "We have asked many patriotic Americans to cooperate with us and regret very much that anyone would assume this meant we were investigating them," said the spokesman.

The spokesman's definition of investigation differs with the dictionary definition and the impression left on the legion.

As described by intelligence reports from the battle zone, the Chinese are led by officers in close touch with Peking.

Their thrusts into the hills and towns of northern Burma threaten not only Burma but Thailand, which has close military ties with the United States. There are no reports, however, that American special forces in Thailand have intervened in the spreading conflict.

The transcript of an unusual Morse radio transmission from the northern Shan states of Burma tells of powerful Communist action against Shan opium armies and troops of the "KMT (Taiwan)," a Chinese Kuomintang force in Burma.

Relayed by Shan rebel army transmitters, the message says: "CPB (Communist Party, Burma) attack KMT (Taiwan) in Mong Sang on Jan. 21, 1974, 0500 hours....15 KMT killed and many wounded." The message claims many weapons were seized by the Communists.

A second message reports: "CPB occupied Mong Sang....Shan United Army (a rebel anti- Communist group— More clashes between the Communists and the Shan armies have been reported in the wireless transmissions of Hpa Heing, Chiang Lain, Om Tung, Kat Lof and Wan Ho Nar.

From other intelligence sources, we have learned that the Communists now threaten the Burmese district capital of Keng Tung and may control the only road connecting it with the rest of Burma.

Another message claims that the Chinese guerrillas probably hold "most of the area between the Nam Pang river and the Salween area"-- a huge tract of misty mountains and deep gorges in northern Burma.

Rep. Lester Wolff, D- N. Y., chairman of the House International Narcotics subcommittee, has established contacts with the Shan army to keep abreast of the opium trade. He has learned that the Chinese military moves may jeopardize his efforts to free two Russian doctors, who were kidnapped by Shan rebels from a Soviet mercy mission to Burma.

The Russians have secretly asked Wolff's help in getting the doctors back. To Wolff's astonishment, he was called from a sick bed to meet with a Soviet diplomat on the matter. Wolff promised to do what he could.

The congressman has used his contacts to seek the doctors' relief. The intermediaries, as a gesture, tried to smuggle two bottles of vodka to them via caravan routes into northern Burma. The vodka, Wolff has learned, was intercepted. But he has received unconfirmed reports that one of the doctors has now been sent southward in a jade caravan to freedom.

The other, as far as can be determined, remains in Shan rebel hands without his vodka. He is being held hostage as part of a bizarre scheme to get talks going on Shan independence

College representative to visit high school

Ken Wilund, a representative of Fontbonne College, will visit with interested students at Sikeston High School at 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

Fontbonne is a four-year college located in Clayton and offers a combination of liberal arts and professional programs. The majority of the college's 625 students are from the St. Louis area and commute to classes daily. Twenty- six states and five foreign countries are represented in Fontbonne's two dormitories.

Majors and programs at the college lead to a variety of degrees, including:

Art; business (including accounting, administrative secretarial, business education, management, personnel administration and retailing); communication disorders (speech pathology); education, both elementary and secondary; special education, including deaf education, emotionally disturbed, learning disabilities, mentally retarded and reading specialist.

Home economics, including dietetics, early childhood or home economics with business, sociology or education; chemistry; English; environmental studies; French; journalism; life sciences; mathematics; medical technology; pre-law; pre-med; psychology; religion; social sciences (history and sociology); theatre; music; and social work.

A student's interests and ambitions can be combined to form his course of study through Fontbonne's college major program. In selecting the college major, a student may choose courses from various departments or combine academic and work experience to create an individual degree program.

Other academic options at Fontbonne include independent study programs, interdisciplinary courses and the satisfactory/unsatisfactory grading option.

The 4-1-4 academic calendar offers the student flexibility. Four courses are taken in the fall, the student spends January on a special project of this choice, and then completes four courses in the spring. There are no required courses at Fontbonne, except those necessary to complete a chosen major.

Daniels bound over to Circuit; bond set

NEW MADRID— Two men were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on felony charges when each waived preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

David Daniels was bound over on a felonious stealing charge and his bond was set at $500. He is accused of stealing a 1951 pickup truck valued at $300 which belonged to Richard Lawson.

Jefferson L. Huggins of Gideon posted $500 bond pending appearance in Circuit Court on a third offense of driving while intoxicated. Huggins also was levied a $71 fine on charges of driving while license is under revocation and failure to register vehicle.

Fines on speeding charges were imposed against James Lassie Kellett, $28; Larry Gene Weldon, $28; Ricky Joe Burnett, $27; Mary Kathleen Copeland, $29; Berlynn Pope, $30; Bobby Dean Rounsavall, $50; Clarence Dempsey Gardner, $32; and William Thomas Watson, $16.

Fined $20 each were Joe Laws, no copy of Missouri special fuel user's license in truck; William Claude Ervin, expired auto license; Jimmy D. Truelove, expired truck license; and Gerald Bee Thomas, expired truck license.

Vada Nordeen was fined $35 on a charge of cheat and defraud by stopping payment on a $22 check to Mary Phillips.

Null fined

Correction

NEW MADRID — The city housing authority paid $731.52 to the city in lieu of taxes in 1973, rather than $53,731.52, as erroneously reported in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Standard.

3 file for board seats

CHARLESTON-- Herbert Marshall II of 109 Danforth St. and Floyd Stallings of 1403 E. Cypress St. have filed for reelection to the R-1 School district board of education.

Mrs Jane Banta Hopkins of 510 E. Commercial St. also filed as a candidate for one of the two three- year positions prior to Tuesday's filing deadline, according to Mrs. Eleanor Hequembourg, board secretary.

Voters in the April 2 general election will also be balloting for or against a 30 cent increase in the school tax levy, raising the present rate of $3.60 per $100 assessed valuation to $3.90.

Bartlett to head committee

John Bartlett, a retired shoe factory employe, was elected chairman of the Community Citizenship Action Committee Sunday during a meeting at Tanner Street Church of God.

The group was organized under the sponsorship of the Christian Civic Foundation in St. Louis in an effort to prevent adoption of legalized gambling in Missouri.

Other officers elected Sunday were the Rev. Lawrence Ray, pastor of the Vanduser Baptist Church, vice chairman; and Charles V. Chaney, a real estate agent, recording secretary.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled April 8 at a place to be announced later.

The group's membership is open to Scott Countians opposed to legalized gambling in the state.

Lisa Gregory

Gregory, Pobst are engaged

MORLEY --Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gregory announce the engagement of their daughter Lisa to Mike Pobst, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pobst of Sikeston Route One.

Miss Gregory is a senior at Scott County Central High School. Pobst, a 1973 graduate of Scott Central, is attending Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau.

If you've run out of ideas for a rainy afternoon, try taking the kids to the florist or a local greenhouse. Children are entranced by the bright colors and forms of flowers and plants, says the Society of American Florists. Let them choose a small plant to take home or ingredients for a terrarium and you'll be well on your way to helping them cultivate a love and respect for growing things.

Martha Cohen is bride of Sgt. Richard Bergbigler

HOMESTEAD, Fla. -- Martha Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cohen Sr. of Sikeston, Mo., and Staff Sgt. Richard Bergbigler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bergbigler Sr. of Butler, Pa., were united in marriage Feb. 16 in First Methodist Church. The Rev. Tillman Wise performed the double -ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white gown of polyester crepe with lace accenting the seven -inch cuffs, midriff belt and collar. The wide ruffle at the hemline was accented with lace at its top and bottom. A small satin bow complimented the back of the dress.

The bride's cathedral -length veil was made of fine netting and featured a lace edge. It was attached to a lace -covered Juliet -style cap accented by three small satin ribbons on the back and sides.

The bride carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Cohen served as her daughter's matron of honor. She wore a red and white street -length dress and a corsage of white carnations.

The couple lives at 59 N. W. 10th Street, Apt. 4, Homestead, where the groom is stationed in the Air Force.

The average home has many mini- climates suitable for a variety of plants and potted flowers, according to the Society of American Florists. Flowering plants generally need lots of sunlight provided by a south or west window, although some shade lovers will prefer a bright north light. A plant needing high humidity may do best in the kitchen or bath.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bergbigler

Spring arrives March 20 at 7:07 a.m. Eastern Standard Time and one of the best spring tonics could be a visit to your local florist to see the array of spring flowers. Hyacinths, tulips, azaleas, mums and cinerarias are just a few of the wares signifying that spring is here.

Sisters reunited with mother

Banana Herbs

Mother, daughters unite after 14 years apart

By JUDY STRICKLIN

Mrs. Tom (Margaret) Robey, 114 Broadway Ave., and Mrs. Eugene (Mary Ann) Dennis of Memphis, Tenn., held another reunion in Sikeston last weekend. This time, however, they were joined by a third sister neither had seen since they were placed in separate homes -unknown to each other --for adoption 14 years ago.

Mrs. Robey, 19, Mrs. Dennis, 20, and Joyce Ann Watkins, 16, of Willard (located since the earlier article was published) also were reunited for the first time with their mother, Mrs. Lena May Oliver of St. James, during the weekend reunion.. The family lived in Pemiscot County before being separated.

The girls were 6, 5, and 2 years old at the time of separation. Margaret was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. L.C. McConnell of Sikeston Route Three, Mary Ann was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Parker Moody of Caruthersville and Joyce Ann was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Watkins of St. Louis, who later moved to Willard.

Guests at the reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. McConnell were Margaret and Mary Ann's husbands, Tom Robey of Sikeston and Eugene Dennis of Memphis, and the Dennises' son Stevie; Marsha McConnell, Margaret's sister; Mr. and Mrs. Watkins and son Walter of Willard, adoptive parents and brother of Joyce Ann; and a friend, Doug Williams of Willard.

Cashmere coat has tie belt

This elegant, white, cashmere coat is accented with a self- fabric tie belt and will be modeled by Barbara Ziegenhorn at the ninth annual Coalesce Club fashion show and card party on March 11 at Ramada Inn. Proceeds from the show, which begins at 7:30 p.m., will go to various community projects. Tickets are available at the door or from club members.

Ann Landers

'As one ages, his dentures should be replaced'

Dear Ann Landers: I work with a delightful lady. She's good- natured and attractive--except for one thing. Her dentures.

When she smiles, she exposes about two inches of upper gum. Her dentures often slip when she speaks, and recently I was scared to death they'd fall out at an office party.

I asked my dentist how a person could be unaware of such a thing. He said, "when the tissue shrinks, as it is bound to do with age, the dentures ought to be replaced. Some people don't know this." Should I tell my friend to get new dentures or keep quiet and not risk offending her?--Treading Lightly

Dear T.L.: Do her a favor. Tell her.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for the woman who complained because her husband grabbed at her all the time, made suggestive remarks in front of the children, and so on. She felt such behavior should be kept in the bedroom. My guess is that he wasn't getting much in the bedroom, either.

I had the same problem with my "Randy Andy," so I know what I'm talking about. A man who is satisfied is not always trying to get more. My advice to that woman is this: Put yourself out even if his carnal appetite is lustier than yours. Let your husband know you want him as much as he wants you, but ask him to please keep it behind closed doors. Also, tell him to call it LOVE, not SEX. There's a big difference.-- Been Down That Same Road And Knew When To Turn

Dear Been D. T. R.: Thanks for the road map. Your directions are plenty explicit. And they make sense, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 14 and in my first year of high school. When I was very young I got into this habit of smelling my old, dirty baby blanket to help me fall asleep. My sisters did the same thing. But they gave up their blankets when they were six and seven. I've still got the habit. My old baby blanket fell apart years ago, so now I smell the bedspread instead. When I have girl friends sleep over I can't wait till the lights are out so I can grab a corner of the bedspread and start sniffing. Please tell me how to kick this habit.--Hooked

Dear H.: Try a substitute. Put some lovely perfume on your wrist, and sniff that instead.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a minister in a Southern town. People are supposed to come to me for advice and here I am writing to Ann Landers. Incredible!

I took this job five years ago. With the job came a 60-year- old sexton, a lonely man who lost his wife and has no children. The job is his whole life.

He hangs around after working hours, won't leave and is a great talker. The fellow is good- hearted and well- liked, but his nose is in everything. When parishioners come to see me he sits in my office and they won't talk in front of him.

I've asked him to please go home after work and not hang around. He says, "I'm sorry. Yu're right," pouts for a few days and then it's the same story.

My secretary has threatened to quit. My wife is fed up, and so am I. But I'm afraid to fire him because he has so many friends. Can you offer some advice before we all quit and leave him to run the place?--Stymied

Dear Reverend S.: Give the lovable pest one more warning. Either he leaves the church at quitting time or he's fired. Then, do it. And, if the congregation would rather have him than you, LET him run the place.

Ann Landers discusses teen-age drinking-- its myths, its realities. Learn the facts by reading, "Booze and You-- For Teen- Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35c in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Homes Fostered Family Solidarity

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT. By Robert C. Twombley. Harper & Row. 306 Pages. $10.

Just about everyone who has ever lived in a house probably has had an urge to design the "perfect home" of his own conception. Frank Lloyd Wright had this urge some 600 times in the course of his 71-year career.

Architects, historians, psychologists, sociologists and the general reader with a home vision of his own, all will find this exhaustive and orderly study of the titan of American architecture both penetrating and revealing. Penetrating, because Twombley has done his homework with a zest founded upon a long-standing admiration for the man. And revealing, because he does not accept the "official" interpreations of Wright's life that are obscured by a mythology that only "great men" seem to generate.

Softners may hurt dryers

Sears, Roebuck and Co. has cautioned its customers that the use of some dryer- type fabric softeners/ conditioners may cause costly damage to its dryers.

Ray Sellers, manager of the Sears store in Midtowner Village Shopping Center, advises dryer owners who wish to condition fabrics to use softeners/ conditioners designed for use in washers and to use them in accordance with the instructions.

"A dryer type softener/ conditioner should not be used unless the softener manufacturer assures that it is not harmful to dryers," he said. "We understand that some manufacturers are changing their products to eliminate the problem."

Sears sells both gas and electric dryers under the Kenmore label.

"We have found that many softeners/ conditioners sold for use in dryers can cause a softening of the interior finish of Sears dryers. This may result in rust which can be transferred to clothing," Sellers said.

In addition, he said many dryer- type softeners/ conditioners can cause clogging of lint screens, reducing the effectiveness of dryers.

Sears said it plans to:

--Label all new dryers with a caution note recommending that dryer- type softeners/ conditioners not be used unless the softener manufacturer assures that it is not harmful to dryers.

--Add a statement to its dryer guarantee to emphasize that damage from the use of dryer- type softeners/ conditioners does not result from a defect in materials or workmanship and, therefore, such damage would not be covered under the guarantee.

Sears said the dryer fabric softeners / conditioners could have a similar effect on all Kenmore dryers, regardless of age.

Former resident elected officer of association

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.– J. M. Shaver of White Plains has been elected vice president of the New York chapter of the National Association of Accountants (NAA).

Shaver, a former Sikeston, Mo., resident, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Shaver of 256 W. Kathleen Ave., Sikeston.

Associated with the controller's department of the Exxon Corp. in New York City, Shaver is a graduate of University of Missouri-Columbia and New York University. Before his election as vice president, he served the chapter as secretary and in various director capacities.

The NAA consists of 70,000 professionals, mostly the top and middle management of major organizations. It directs itself to the educational aspects of accounting and financial management.

The scope of the association has expanded from the traditional methods of record keeping to today's complex business information systems.

The NAA was founded in 1919 and now has over 300 chapters around the world, of which the New York chapter is the largest.

Chapter programs provide continuing education in many areas of business. Spurred on by the diligence of its members who represent leading American firms, the NAA has greatly helped business utilize the tremendous analytical capabilities of today's management techniques.

Dexter man buys motor company

KENNETT– H. V. Sewell, an auto dealer in Kennett since 1949, has sold Sewell Motor Co. to Joe Puricelli, formerly a salesman for City Motor Sales in Dexter.

Sewell was a Ford dealer in Campbell for 18 years before coming to Kennett in 1943. In 1949, Sewell Motor Co. operated for business in a building located where the Arkansas- Missouri Power Co. offices are now. The present Sewell Motor Co. building was built on First Street in 1954, and in 1957, Sewell bought the Ford dealership.

Puricelli, 30, said he, his wife and three children will move to [illegible] future.

Madrid aid payments announced

NEW MADRID– A total of $211,624.13, representing various welfare funds, were disbursed in February by the New Madrid County Welfare office, with the greatest part of that amount paid to aid to dependent children recipients, according to figures released by Mrs. Laverne Hadder, director of the office.

ADC funds totaling $113,509 were received by 905 families for 2,338 children at an average of $125.42 per family.

A total of 807 persons were transferred to the new Supplemental Security Income rolls. These persons no longer receive assistance payments from the state programs. However, they remain eligible for Title 19 (Medicaid benefits from the state).

A total of $12,330 was paid to 217 persons for state supplemental payments only. These persons were previously on the old age assistance, permanent and total disability and aid to the blind payrolls, and were not eligible for the SSI program.

General relief funds amounting to $17,498 were paid to 255 families of 272 persons for an average check of $64.33 per person.

Hospital and nursing home expenditures amounted to $52,170.41.

There were 169 children under child welfare supervision. New Madrid County Court and state boarding funds each contributed matching funds of $476.36 for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care and incidentals for the children.

Food stamp figures were not available.

WASHINGTON, Mo.— Southeast Missouri's Class A basketball power, the Advance Hornets, face Central Missouri's best in the quarterfinals of the state tournament at 7:30 tonight in the Washington High School gymnasium.

Coach Carroll Cookson's AHS cagers, participants in the state finals for the past two seasons with a first and second place finish, take a 22- 9 season mark into the contest against Crocker's 28- 2 slate.

The Hornets will have to stop 6- foot forward Joe Tanner if they are to advance into their third straight state finals appearance at Columbia. Tanner is averaging 20.3 points a game and has a deadly shot from the 20 to 30- foot range.

Crocker, a member of the always tough Central Missouri Frisco League, fashioned a 23- 5 mark last season and have lost only to Bourbon (72- 67) and Tuscumbia (63- 62) this season.

Sparking the Lions defensively is Andy Lowe, a 5- foot- 11 guard who also gives them a near 20- point per game average offensively.

Tonight's winner will advance to the semifinals of the Class A state tournament at Columbia Friday afternoon, where it will do battle with the winner of tonight's Greenfield- Walnut Grove game at Springfield.

A GOLFER'S DREAM could be the real results of British inventor Douglas Whybrow's new invention. Whybrow perfected an adjustable golfing putter already approved by British and U.S. golfing authorities. The revolutionary putter is adjusted by means of changeable weights which screw into the side of the putter.

Sports in Brief

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Cohen High School Coach Ken Brownson plans to buy each of his players a steak dinner today after they won their first baseball game in eight years.

Cohen smashed Clark 13-5 Tuesday.

Clark had been picked by a local sports writer to win the Class AAAA district championship this year.

Brownson said his players earned the steak dinner. "They really deserve it.

"They've had to take a lot of razzing at school, like, 'How bad you guys going to get beat today!' "

The Right Combination... MANHATTAN® and YOU

A great cup of coffee doesn't "just" happen. It begins with a special blend of coffee . . . Manhattan Coffee. But that's only half of the story. That rich, robust Manhattan needs YOU before it can happen. Beginning with fresh, cool water in a nice clean coffee pot, you just add the right amount of Manhattan to suit your taste. And the result . . . delicious!

Today in U.S. history

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, March 6, the 65th day of 1974. There are 300 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1836, the Alamo in San Antonio, Tex., fell after a 13-day siege. Davy Crockett and some 180 other defenders were killed.

On this date:

In 1475, the Renaissance artist Michelangelo was born in Caprese, Italy.

In 1857, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a slave, Dred Scott, could not sue for his freedom in a federal court.

In 1945, during World War II, the German city of Cologne fell to the U.S. 1st Army.

In 1957, the former British African colonies of the Gold Coast and Togoland became the indpennt state of Ghana.

In 1953, Georgi Malenkov became Soviet premier after the death of Josef Stalin.

In 1961, President John F. Kennedy issued an executive order stating that Americans of all colors and beliefs must have equal job opportunities within the government and with firms doing business with the government.

Today's birthday: Conductor Julius Rudel is 53. Hall of Fame pitcher Robert "Lefty" Grove is 74.

Thought for today: Ask yourself whether you are happy, and you cease to be so. — John Stuart Mill, English philosopher and economist, 1806-1873.

Though Ceylon is the world's second largest producer of tea, exceeded only by India, its major export formerly was cinnamon. When the cinnamon trade dropped off, coffee plantations were started as a substitute. Not until blight destroyed coffee crops in the 1880s did tea become a major crop on the island.

Lucemobile will visit area towns

NEW MADRID— The Lucemobile, a learning center on wheels, will be in New Madrid, Howardville and Portageville March 13- 15 on its tour of New Madrid County.

The Lucemobile will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. March 13 at the New Madrid Federal Housing Authority and the same hours March 14 at the Howardville community building and March 15 at the Portage Village Federal Housing Authority in Portageville.

It is made available by the cooperative extension services of Lincoln University in Jefferson City and University of Missouri-Columbia.

The mobile center has housing care information to help families and individuals improve and maintain their homes.

Information can be obtained on a variety of topics, such as repairing leaky faucets and electric plugs, care of floors, frauds in home repairs, fixing problem doors, caring for the range and refrigerator and others.

Dr. Sue Fowler and Miss Lois Deneke, Lincoln University housing specialists, are in charge of the learning center and its programs, which they developed with the assistance of Judy Swartz of Kennett and Fredericka Plummer of Charleston, area extension home economists, and Mr. and Mrs. Lance Powell, mobile staff members.

4 students to attend St. Louis conference

ST. LOUIS-- Four students representing Sikeston Senior High School will attend the Missouri Regional Junior Science, Engineering and Humanities Symposium Thursday through Saturday at the University of Missouri- St. Louis.

Students attending will be Raymond Waits, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Waits, 416 Shady Lane; Barbara Boshears, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boshears, 103 Selma St.; Buddy Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Barnes, 101 Linda Dr., and Alberta Sloan who lives with Mr. and Mrs. Castor Alsup, Route Three.

The students are among 150 in the state who were chosen by UMSL to attend the three- day symposium in St. Louis, and to compete for participation at the national conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in April.

During the visit to UMSL, students will present original research papers, visit laboratories of practicing scientists in various St. Louis industries, and talk with educators and researchers about their career interests.

The symposium grant was awarded by the U. S. Army Office of Research, which has been funding other regional symposiums in the country for several years. Part of the money will be used to cover the expenses of the students chosen to go to the national conference.

Tinnin's amendment was added to Senate Bill 372, which would add one judge to Kansas City.

"I hope the lawyers and judges in my district will all support my move to have another judge added to the Springfield Court of Appeal," Tinnin said.

"I was asked to write the bill but due to the short session and the request coming so late, it was impossible to do it any other way than to amend either the Kansas City bill or the St. Louis bill," he said.

The St. Louis bill would add two judges to the city. However, Tinnin did add his amendment to that bill, because it was expected to come under fire in the Senate, a spokesman at Tinnin's office said.

"With the need to go to the appelate courts more and more, particularly in the area of motions and writs, it would be not only to the advantage of the Southeast Missouri people, but to the courts as well, that the Springfield Court of Appeals establish a permanent division of their courts to be located in Southeast Missouri preferably Poplar Bluff," Tinnin said.

Retiring PCA advisory committee members are honored at meeting

Six retiring members of the Sikeston Production Credit Association advisory committee who had served their three year term received certificates of appreciation Tuesday night at the association's annual Ladies' Night Advisory Committee meeting at the First United Methodist Church.

Members honored were John Pobst, Eugene Pobst and William G. Fowler of Sikeston; Thomas Rendleman Sr. of Painton, Joseph R. Brown of Bell City and William M. Cole of Bertrand. The certificates were presented by Gordon P. Hill, assistant vice president of the Sikeston Field Office.

Ray Edmonds, assistant vice president in charge of the Charleston office, told the approximately 110 people attending the joint meeting between the Sikeston and Charleston field offices that the total association increased loans to members from $37 million in 1972 to $52 million in 1973, an increase of 40 per cent.

Robert A. Wright, president of the association, reported to the advisory group that monies available for farming looked favorable and after several months of increased money cost nationally, there was a downward turn in money cost in February. The association projects the credit needs of local members will exceed $56 million in 1974, Wright reported, large amounts of which will be used for fertilizer income tax and farm equipment.

The association paid federal and state income taxes of $10,722 in 1973 and paid $7,071.70 in dividends to members holding "A" stock, which is non- voting stock.

David E. Blanton, Sikeston attorney, spoke on estate planning. He gave the group, in general terms, an example of how a farmer's financial situation in Southeast Missouri will be handled as to probated, and the use of a will. He presented the good and bad points of trusts, gifts and corporations as they may relate to farming.

The meal was served by the United Methodist Women.

Globe says Hahn tried to get officials fired

JEFFERSON CITY--- A powerful Jefferson City oil lobbyist, John Hahn, formerly of Sikeston, reportedly tried to get "some people...fired" in the state motor fuel tax section after officials of the section began trying to plug suspection information leaks thought to be helping the lobbyist's surety bond business.

The information was reported by Les Pearson, a staff writer, in the St. Louis Globe- Democrat today following an investigation by the paper.

Hahn, of the Missouri Oil Jobbers Association, has a sideline business of selling surety bonds to motor fuel companies and individuals. The state requires the bonding to guarantee payment of motor fuel taxes.

Officials suspected Hahn was receiving information on companies applying for motor fuel licenses and then soliciting those companies to buy surety bonds from him.

Harold Schuyler, revenue department motor fuel tax manager, said he believes Hahn tried to have Schuyler fired after Schuyler warned his secretary, Mrs. Lorene Scott, about leaking information to Hahn.

She was fired as of last July 31, but officials said the action had nothing to do with the suspected leak. She denied leaking information to Hahn, Schuyler said.

Hahn denied trying to have Schuyler fired. Hahn acknowledged, however, talking to revenue director James R. Spradling several months ago "about certain practices and improvements....I didn't have anybody specific in mind."

Spradling said Hahn told him "some people ought to be fired" in the motor fuel section, but did not mention names

But Spradling told the Globe- Democrat, "I am not susceptible to pressure from anyone. I'm either going to run it or I'm not."

Hahn denied receiving any information from the motor fuel tax section that was not "freely available" to anyone else.

Hahn acknowledged that he had received from the section in 1972 a list of companies required by law to post surety bonds, giving amounts of the bonds, companies writing the bonds and expiration dates. He also received monthly lists of firms applying for licenses, he said.

Schuyler, however, said he can find no record of such lists going to anyone else outside the motor fuel tax office.

An employe still working for the motor fuel tax section, Connie McGinnis, said she had assisted in providing these reports to Hahn and that he was the only person getting such information.

Schuyler said she had asked last summer if she should continue providing information to Hahn, and he told her she should not.

Schuyler said his investigation last summer started after a series of complaints from companies applying for new motor fuel licenses that they had been solicited by Hahn to write surety bonds "almost within hours" after being given application documents.

lawyer, James D. St. Clair, told a court hearing that Nixon also is willing to answer written questions from the committee which is considering impeachment resolutions. St. Clair said Nixon would submit to an oral interview if the committee was not satisfied with the written answers.

At his last news conference, also broadcast live from the East Room on Feb. 25, Nixon gave an optimistic assessment of the energy crunch and, in responding to questions, disclosed the Watergate grand jury had unsuccessfully sought his personal testimony.

At that session Nixon also asserted that criminal wrongdoing was necessary for impeachment of a President and declared, "I do not expect to be impeached."

In the past, months sometimes have elapsed between Nixon news conferences. But late last summer and last fall, Nixon held four news conferences in a period of about two months.

The President has scheduled a nationally televised and broadcast question-and-answer session with members of the National Association of Broadcasters in Houston on March 19.

BAD PREDICTION FOR SLAV SMOKERS

BELGRADE (AP) — Medical experts asserted that about 10,000 Yugoslavs will die this year because of cancer caused by smoking. They said that every sixth smoker dies of cancer and every third dies among those who smoke about 40 cigarettes daily, Belgrade "Nin" Magazine reported.

Piedmont voters pass $500,000 building bond

PIEDMONT, Mo. (AP) — Voters in this Southeast Missouri town passed a $500,000 bond issue Tuesday to build a new industrial building for the St. Louis-based International Hat Co.

Piedmont Mayor Roy Anderson said the building will be the first in a new industrial park and airport complex being planned by the city.

"The idea for this industrial complex was conceived in 1971," Anderson said, "and we're very pleased with its progress."

Anderson said the hat company plans to expand its production facilities with the Piedmont site and will employ 325 workers with an average annual payroll of $1.5 million.

The vote to approve the bond issue was 509-17.

Miner board sets April 2 election date

The Miner town board Tuesday night passed an ordinance setting April 2 for a general election. Deadline for county registration is 7 p.m. today.

Mayor L. F. Wheeler announced a dog vaccination clinic is scheduled from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. March 23 at the fire station. Dr. Sam Hunter of Sikeston will administer the vaccinations. Dog licenses are due April 1.

The board decided not to submit a proposal to purchase Associated Natural Gas Co. facilities from Arkansas - Missouri Power Co. of Blytheville, Ark. at this time.

A discussion on whether to proceed with plans to qualify Miner as a fourth - class city was tabled until after the April 2 election when two vacancies on the town board will be filled. Qualification for a fourth- class city rating is one of the first steps that the town must take if it is to build a proposed sewer system.

Three bids have been recieved on two walkie- talkie units for the police department. Bids were received from RCA, $795; General Electric, $1,896 and Motorola, $1,944. The bids will be submitted to the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council, which will pay 75 per cent of the cost of the units.

More warehouse space available

OFMCO began doing business in a new location Friday at 1209 W. North St. The company, which deals in used office furniture, moved from 527 W. Murray Lane, to this 42,000 square- foot building, which provides twice as much warehouse space for wholesale business and development of a larger retail business.

OFMCO has new location

OFMCO opened for business Friday in a new location at 1209 W. North St. with twice as much warehouse space as it had in the building it formerly occupied at 527 W. Murray Lane.

The company, which deals in large volumes of used office furniture, is primarily a wholesale business, but is developing a wider retail business for shoppers in the area, according to manager Steve Woods.

With 42,000 square feet of floor space at its new location, Woods said OFMCO can now stock more merchandise and develop more retail trade, now that space limitation have been overcome.

Woods also explained that the move was made because the company has recently acquired more customers from Midwestern and Southern states.

The company carries many items, including credenzas, safes, desks, swivel chairs, filing cabinets, work tables, tables and side chairs.

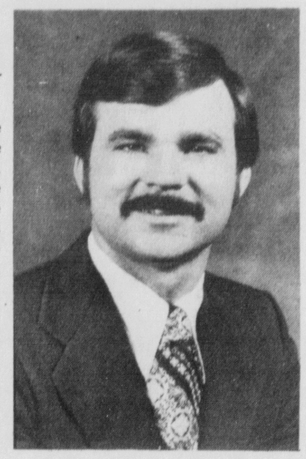
"To our knowledge we are the only company in the United States that handles such a large volume of used office furniture," Woods said. He explained that the items stocked by the company are usually of high quality offered at discount prices.

The three-year - old company is owned by Don Lowe, 512 N. Kingshighway. With another warehouse in New York City, OFMCO has 90,000 square feet of storage space and operates eight over-the- road tractor - trailer units and one eight- passenger airplane.

Agent breaks records; makes international club

HOUSTON, Tex --Hank Hough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Hough of Charleston, Mo., has broken Prudential Insurance Co. records by writing over $2 million worth of insurance during his first year in the business.

In doing so, he qualified for the company's prestigious International Honor Club and became a vice president of the company's Leader's Roundtable.



Hank Hough

Hough, who became the company's 1973 Man of the Year in Houston, is the first district agent in the Southwestern region to write over $2 million of business in his first year.

In Charleston High School, Hough was a member of the honor society and the student council, a class office, each year, football, track and wrestling captain, president of the band and glee clubs and received the Marshall Award, which is presented the most outstanding all -around student over a four -year period.

Hough graduated among the top students in his class at the University of Missouri -Columbia in 1972. He graduated third in his class from officer candidate school in the army and was selected on academic merit to serve in the Pentagon at staff level, the first second lieutenant to be chosen for this duty.

Hough's wife, the former Vicki Anderson, a native Missourian, taught for a brief time in the Charleston public school stystem.

Inspecting new history book

Sikeston Junior High School has a new addition to its library, "The Pictoral History of the American Revolution", donated by Security National Bank. Examining the book are W. L. "Buddy" Clayton, junior high principal; Mrs. Polly Hanks, librarian; and Don Agnew, executive vice president of Security National Bank. The bank also donated a copy of the book to the senior high school.

Telephone cable cuts pose threat

In addition to warmer weather, lots of sunshine and turning everything green, spring also brings an unusual danger to all communities. That's the danger of a possible communications isolation that could result if buried telephone cables are severed.

"In the spring, a lot of people start digging," said Southwestern Bell manager Mike Smith. "Road improvements, new houses, projects involving trenching and sometimes even large gardens pose a threat to buried telephone cable.

"Unfortunately, most people will begin digging without checking with the phone company to see if there is buried cable in the vicinity," he said. "Builders and contractors can locate any underground cables quickly and at no cost by simply calling the Operator."

Smith said that before any digging or trenching is begun, a person should call the Operator and ask for Enterprise 9800.

"Every spring we can expect to have one or two cable cuts in the area from ambitious diggers," he said. "Sometimes this cuts off telephone service for just a few residents, sometimes for an entire section of town and sometimes an entire community is left without Long Distance service. We have been fortunate that emergencies during these telephone service interruptions have been rare.

"I don't think anyone would knowingly cut a cable and thereby cut off peoples' telephone service, but it happens," Smith said. "A quick telephone call can avoid the entire situation."

Paul R. Fleurdelys

Fleurdelys honored

Paul R. Fleurdelys, C.L.U., of Charleston, nominee of the St. Louis General Office, was honored at the St. Louis Life General Agents and Managers Association's Man Of The Year Dinner at the Marriott Hotel on Feb. 19, according to General Manager H. Keith Brinson, C.L.U. Fleurdelys was a million dollar producer with production of $1,856,289.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

February 27, 1974
Editor Standard 205 S. New
Madrid Sikeston, Mo. 63801

Dear Editor:

I would like to take issue with a Jack Anderson column that appeared recently in your newspaper. The column claimed industry taxes are much too low, and profits are much too high. In both cases, the charges are unfounded.

On taxes, Anderson cites as evidence a draft study of the oil industry by Ralph Nader. That study would have the public believe that certain oil companies paid only 1.7 per cent and 1.3 per cent of their profits in federal income taxes. Nader uses the old "apple & orange" trick of comparing U.S. income taxes with world-wide income. By so doing, both the study and the column are being less than honest with the public. Any high school student knows you should figure world- wide taxes on world- wide income, or domestic taxes on domestic income.

A recent study by the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, Inc. shows the effective federal income tax rate for the domestic oil industry was 25.6 per cent in 1972. On a world- wide basis, the U. S. oil industry had an effective world- wide income tax rate of 58 per cent in 1972. That is, the total world- wide tax burden of the industry in 1972, was 58 cents out of every dollar of income.

Mr. Anderson attempts to imply that the mineral depletion allowance and the foreign tax credit are "tax breaks" available only to the large oil companies. He knows that virtually all mineral extracting industries have the benefit of the depletion provision. In addition, any American company-- or individual-- who pays income taxes on foreign earnings can credit foreign tax payments against U. S. taxes. Otherwise, they would be subject to confiscatory double taxation.

Messrs. Anderson and Nader are equally off- base in their comments on taxes and royalties paid to the Saudi Arabians and other Middle-East governments. The fact is that the companies pay both taxes and royalties. They get a credit only for the tax payments (just as in this country) and deduct the royalty payments as an expense (just as in this country).

The Anderson column also misrepresents the oil profit situation. The fact is that oil industry profits are still below the average for all manufacturing companies, despite improvement in 1973. A decade of subnormal returns is one reason exploration for new petroleum reserves has not kept pace with increasing consumer energy needs. The money needed to explore for, produce, refine, and distribute petroleum is enormous- on the order of $50 billion per year. This money must come from private investors and from company profits plowed back into the business. Yet, in the middle of the energy crisis, Mr. Anderson and Mr. Nader seem preoccupied with reducing profits at the very time this money is needed to find more oil and gas for the American people.

Sincerely,
Robert R. Hurt

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Just wanted to drop you a line and tell you how much I enjoyed your Annual Progress Edition.

I believe this year's edition is, without a doubt, the best you have ever published. It gave me about three hours of most enjoyable reading. I think your Progress Edition is a valuable public service to the residents of Southeast Missouri.

Congratulations again on an outstanding job.

Sincerely,

Dear Charley—

Received the annual progress edition from Sikeston -- the Blanton version of the N.Y. Times Sunday edition. I marvel at your: Ads, News & Feature stories and your pictures. The amazing thing is how you do it each year so successfully. Hope you are feeling fine and you haven't neglected your fishing --

Thanks for your thoughtfulness --

I particularly enjoyed your hernia sized special edition, Charles. Those people up there in the Boot Heel really believe in progress. I'm sure it was a heavy load getting it into the bank. Also, I particularly enjoyed the story on Petey the Snake. Hang in there, Chuck.

Ben

Dear Mr. Blanton

As of your editorial in the March 1 edition of your paper you made the comment strikers should not receive food stamps I am the wife of a striker and I feel that you are way off base. For one thing, I am not receiving Food Stamps as many others are not. Those receiving are mostly large families. Do you suggest that they (the children, go hungry due to a strike? These laborers as you call them have had large amounts held out for taxes to feed our welfare cadillacs. None of us plan on remaining on the Food Stamp list.

You strike me as being for Noranda Alum. Corp. Are they a big subscribers??

Most of these strikers, like my husband, are just guys trying to make a good living for their families.

Why not spend a week in the Pot room, Rod mill or working in Thermon oil before you comment on our wage negotiations.

Not too long ago a young man, excuseme, I mean laborer, was blown off a fork lift in an explosion of hot alum. coming in contact with moisture. He'll carry a scar the rest of his life -- is any salary worth the risk of losing your life. Several of us "cotton pickers" and "pig farmers" are carrying alum. burn scars, several of which could have put out an eye or even or even worse, in some cases did!

Several unions have high wage scales due to the risk involved in their jobs -- Noranda should be on the list.

If there are any other "striker wives" out there -- what do you say? I think we should stand behind our husbands all the way. They need our help and encouragement.

Dear Charlie:

Have finished looking through that Progress Edition very carefully, and you really did put out an edition. Certainly was good work all the way and my compliments to the little girls and boys who "helped" you.

Know that you couldn't have done all that by yourself.

And has your cashier's arm recovered from ringing up the cash register?

Very well done.

Hoped to get to the spring meeting of the AP but haven't found out yet when or even if there is to be one. Think the best thing to do would be write Moen and thank him for the invitation, please when I am going to get it.

But even if there isn't one, know you must have some business up here. Even with a 55- mile- an = hour speed limit.

Would sure like to hear Charlie's comment on that said Sammie. Don't write it, however.

And if you do get here, you know where we are and will expect to hear from you.

Thanks again for the edition. Sammie joins me in saying Hello.

Believe me,
Sincerely

A single shrimp may produce more than a million eggs, but most of the billions of larvae spawned each year never reach adulthood. In their early stages, they starve unless food floats to them, and they make a tasty morsel for everything that swims — including older shrimp.

Youngster accidentally shot

CLARKTON — A 12-year - old Clarkton boy was treated and released at Dunklin County Memorial Hospital Saturday, following an accidental shooting at a friend's home.

Dunklin County Deputy Sheriff Juston Huggins withheld the name of the 10 - year - old youth who accidentally shot young Terry Oswald, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Oswald. The boy was shot above the right knee with a .22 - caliber pistol.

Huggins said the shooting occurred while the two youths were playing with a gun.

He said the gun belonged to an uncle, who told the boy it was just a toy and had left it in a box under the seat of his car.

The two boys were fooling around with it when it accidentally discharged, striking the Oswald boy in the leg, Huggins said.

Mrs. W. T. Shanks of Woodman, Colo., is expected in Sikeston this afternoon for a short visit with homefolks and look after business interests. It will be good news to the friends of Mr. Shanks to hear that he has been free of fever for some days and is doing much better than expected.

While in reminiscent mood the other day, John Fox stated that while in Nagasiki, Japan during the Spanish-American war, he went into a tailor shop to price a suit of clothes, was told the price per suit, tailor made, was $5. He had his measure taken and it was delivered to his hotel at 5 p.m. While on the return trip he priced the same grade suit from a fashionable tailor in St. Louis, as he asked $65 for it.

Prayer for today
from the Upper Room

We have not a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sinning. (Hebrews 4:15)
PRAYER: Lord, grant that the temptations that assail us may never find a welcome within our hearts. In the name of the Christ, who was tempted as we are, yet was ever without sin. Amen.

Students call for 'streak for impeachment'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A group of University of Pennsylvania students has called for a "streak for impeachment" April 1 around the White House.

They say they are hoping to convince President Nixon to "lay bare the facts" about Watergate.

Streaking, or running nude through public places, has popped up at numerous campuses of late.

"It's time for President Nixon to lay bare the facts and give us the naked truth," Paul Matthias of Penn said Monday in disclosing plans for the "streak for impeachment" on April Fool's day. He said other Ivy League schools would be asked to take part.

Matthias is the vice chairman of student government at Penn. He calls himself a veteran streaker, although he says he's given up the practice.

SeMo U. couple win dance meet

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A Southeast Missouri State University couple, Miss Geri Houdak and Art O'Connor, won the 52-hour "Dance For Strength" marathon, which ended in St. Louis Sunday night.

They will each receive a motorcycle for staying on their feet the longest and for prompting the most pledges for the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation.

The marathon, which was sponsored by St. Louis radio station KSD, raised more than $13,000 for the foundation.

Of the 12 couples who began the marathon at the Chase Park-Plaza Hotel Friday afternoon, only six remained when the music stopped at 8 p.m. Sunday.

"Ah, it's been great, but I'll never do this again," said one girl.

The second place couple, also from Southeast Missouri State, was Vera White and Jim Kimker. They will receive 10-speed bicycles.

The top two couples will compete in a national MS dance marathon in April at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

What's the law?

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A federal statute authorized the secretary of agriculture, in management of forests, to issue rules "to regulate their occupancy and use." One rule, which was duly posted, prohibited indecent exposure in national parks. Consequently, when Ella and Paul decided to go skinnydipping one hot afternoon in a national park, they were promptly arrested for violating the rule.

"We caught them splashing around like two children of nature," testified two forest rangers in court.

"And why not?" questioned the two skinnydippers. "We were in a place of nature and there's nothing more natural than swimming in the nude.

"As for the secretary of agriculture, his authority was intended to protect the forests from destruction. Our swimming in no way constituted a threat to the forests. His rule relating to indecent exposure was beyond his authority and, consequently, we can't be convicted of violating it.'.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict the skinnydippers of violating the rule against indecent exposure?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the power to regulate the "occupancy and use" of land includes the authority to formulate rules concerning the conduct of people using that land. And, concluded the judge, skinnydipping in a national park constitutes indecent exposure which was prohibited.

Funerals unnecessarily expensive, says survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Trade Commission study released Thursday depicted grieving funeral buyers as captive consumers who spend hundreds of dollars more than necessary.

The staff study said people don't shop funeral homes because they are usually grief stricken and because funeral homes rarely advertise prices.

The study said customers often aren't told cheaper funerals are available or certain services can be waived.

Morticians sometimes misinform customers that such things as embalming are leagally required, it said. And the morticians charge up to $200 just for cremation, even though the crematory charge is no more than $75, it said.

"The funeral industry is characterized by a lack of price competition, a lack of price competition, a lack of consumer information and ultimately — on the bottom line — a lack of consumer choice," said J. Thomas Rosch, head of the commission's bureau of consumer protection.

Although the survey covered only the 55 funeral homes in the Washington area, "the results are in general accord with a number of other cost studies and estimates from around the country," the study said.

Rosch said the commission is studying ways to provide more information to funeral shoppers and make the industry more competitive.

The study estimated the cost of a typical funeral and burial at $1,886 complete.

The commission asked the area's funeral homes for the prices of their three cheapest funerals and found that the cost of the very cheapest ranged from $210 to $900.

The average price of funerals sold during 1973 ranged from $500 to $1,830. None of the prices included burial costs, which added $488 to the typical funeral.

The staff study said that the quality of goods and services varies from one mortician to another, but added a qualifier: Someone who buys an expensive funeral also pays more for identical services provided for cheaper funerals.

The staff said that of the 55 mortuaries surveyed, 15 have no price display of any kind in their establishment.

COOKING-UP

By NADINE TOWNSEND

NEW MADRID — I can't promise that you will save pennies by baking your own bread, but I can promise you won't be disappointed if you try any one of the recipes in today's column. The batter type — without yeast — are quick and easy, and although the yeast breads require a little more time, the results are worth it!

Two spicy applesauce breads, one with mincemeat and the other with chopped walnuts, can be stirred up in a hurry. They are excellent for making in advance and storing in the freezer.

For a sharp and tangy flavor, onion and cheese are teamed in a cornbread to add the perfect accompaniement for a stew or casserole.

The orange- carrot bread is delicious eaten plain, toasted or made into sandwiches. The recipe makes two loaves, and it's a good thing, too, for one loaf will disappear quickly.

Rising time for the streamlined white bread is only one- third what it used to be and there's no kneading or shaping. There's just nothing quite like the aroma and taste of homemade bread fresh from the oven. Mmmm -- think I'll make a loaf right now ...

APPLESAUCE-MINCEMEAT LOAF

½ cup shortening
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs
2½ cups sifted all- purpose flour
2 tsps double- acting baking powder
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. allspice
¼ tsp. cloves
1 cup canned applesauce
1 cup moist mincemeat

Cream shortening with sugar. Add eggs, beat until light and smooth. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Add to shortening mixture alternately with applesauce, mixing well after each addition. Carefully fold in mincemeat.

Pour into 9 x 5 inch loaf pan which has been greased on bottom only.

Bake at 350 degrees for one hour or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pan 15 minutes then remove from pan and finish cooling on rack. bread may be prepared in advance, wrapped in foil and frozen.

PENNSYLVANIA APPLESAUCE BREAD

2 cups sifted all- purpose flour
1 tsp. double- acting baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ cup butter or shortening
¾ cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
2 eggs
1 cup applesauce (fresh or canned)
½ cup walnuts, chopped

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, soda, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cream butter and add sugar gradually, creaming well. Add vanilla and eggs; beat well

Blend in dry ingredients gradually; mix thoroughly. Add applesauce and walnuts; mix only until blended.

Pour into well- greased 9x5x3 inch pan. Push batter up into corners of pan, leaving the center slightly hollowed. For well- rounded loaf, allow to stand 20 minutes before baking.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 55 to 60 minutes. Cool thoroughly before slicing.

ONION-CHEESE BREAD

3 tbsp. soft-type margarine
1½ cups chopped onion
1 cup unsifted all purpose flour
1 cup plain white cornmeal
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. parsley flakes
1/3 cup soft- type margarine
1 egg
1 cup milk
½ cup grated, sharp cheddar cheese

Heat three tablespoons of soft- type margarine in small skillet. Add onion and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally for 10 minutes, or until tender.

Mix flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt, parsley and two tablespoons of the sauteed onions in a mixing bowl. Cut in one- third cup of soft- type margarine until mixture is like coarse meal. Make depression in center. Beat egg and milk together and add to flour mixture. Stir until moistened.

Spread in 8x8x2 inch or 9x9x2 inch baking pan that has been coated with soft- type margarine. Spoon remaining onions over top and sprinkle with grated cheese.

Bake at 425 degrees for 30 minutes for eight- inch pan, or 20 minutes for nine- inch pan, until top is golden brown.

Turn out of pan and quickly turn right side up. Cut in squares and serve hot. (To reheat wrap bread in foil and heat in 400- degree oven for 15 minutes.) Makes nine to 12 squares.

ORANGE-CARROT BREAD

2 pkgs. active dry yeast
1 cup warm water
2 tbsp. sugar
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnaomon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. allspice
1 egg, beaten
3 tbsp. soft butter or margarine
2/3 cup lukewarm orange juice
2 tbsp. grated orange peel
6 to 6½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, divided
1 cup seedless raisins
1½ cups grated carrots, at room temperature

Sprinkle yeast on warm water stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt, spices, egg, butter, orange juice and peel. Stir in three cups of the flour. Beat until smooth. Add raisins and carrots; blend well

Gradually add enough remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board; knead until smooth, about five to eight minutes.

Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft until double in bulk (about one hour).

Divide in half shape each half into a loaf. Place each loaf in greased 9 x 5 x 3 inch loaf pan. Cover; let rise in a warm place until doubled (about one hour).

Bake at 400 degrees about 35 to 40 minutes, or until done. Remove from pan; cool on rack. Makes two loaves.

STREAMLINED WHITE BREAD

1¼ cups warm water
1 pkg. active dry yeast
2 tbsp. soft shortening
2 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. sugar
3 cups sifted all purpose flour

In mixing bowl dissolve yeast in water. Add shortening, salt, sugar and half the flour. Beat two minutes at medium mixer speed or 300 vigorous strokes by hand. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl frequently. Add remaining flour and blend in with spoon until smooth.

Scrape batter from sides of bowl, cover with cloth, let rise in warm place (85 degrees) about 30 minutes. Then beat batter about 25 strokes and spread it evenly in greased loaf pan, 9 x 5 x 3 inches. Smooth top and pat into shape with floured hand.

Let rise again (at 85 degrees) until batter reaches one inch from top of pan (about 40 minutes). Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bake 45 to 50 minutes until brown. Remove from pan, place on cooling rack. Brush top with melted butter or shortening. Cool before cutting.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

And you think you've got troubles! I just recently purchased a washing machine, and Thursday when I got ready to use it it wouldn't run. I called the dealer and immediately the service man arrived, fixed it and left. I washed my clothes, but then at the end of the cycle it wouldn't spin, I called again, again he arrived, and finally after 2 hours took the machine back to the shop. I then (my washroom is upstairs on the second floor) went up and proceeded to clean behind and under where the washer had been, and noticed a lot of water in the steel pan the washer sits in, but thought that that was a result of the washer being taken out, so thought no more about it and just mopped it up. Friday morning dawned and I discovered water to the brim in my pan, so I bailed like crazy, when in comes my friend with a washer with all new parts (I told him the silly thing had committed suicide doing my clothes), but, I need a plumber for my something or other has sprung a leak. I call a plumber and he arrives, my washer people leave while he's there working, he leaves, they come back and replace the washer, and the faucet leaks again. I again call the plumber, he comes, and they leave for lunch while he toils over the leak. He leaves, they return and put in the washer and leave and now I find I leak sorta in a new spot. I go to the phone and again call the plumber and my phone which has been acting up for weeks and for which I've had the phone man out here 3 times for to no avail, acts up again, so after screaming my message at the plumber, I again call the telephone office and report the dumb phone. Fifteen minutes later I have the plumber back, the washer people back checking out the washer, and the telephone man working on my phones which are (as always when he comes) as clear as a bell. Well thank goodness (I didn't want him to think I was making this all up and having him out here just because he was cute or something) the plumber told him how bad my connection to him had been and my sister-in-law walked in and told him how awful my phones were, in fact, she even went home and dialed here twice and made him talke to her a long time on different phones to see if it wouldn't go bad — it didn't. It worries me for fear of what the neighbors are now beginning to think of me with all these men going in and out in shifts Now they all leave again, the washer fixed, the leak stopped, and the phone still not working. Fine, and I refuse to even go near the laundry room, but by Monday morning when I could no longer shut the door for all the dirty clothes I relented and threw a load in and guess what — the washer wouldn't drain out the water and the leak was back and the phones were going clack - clack - clack!!!!! Well, the washer people came out and discovered all was wrong was a pinched hose, and the plumber came out and (fingers crossed) fixed the leak and so I heaved a sigh of relief, threw in another load of clothes and again guess what — no hot water will fill the washer, so now I'm waiting for the plumber again and again and again. Oh well things could be worse. My sister-in-law has been trying to redo her bedroom, and after waiting 2 weeks to get the plaster patched and have it wallpapered, she finally did, cleaned up the mess, called the rug cleaner to do her carpet so she could move into it spotless, and when he left all the fresh wallpaper fell off the wall and took most of the plaster with it. Cie la vie!!!

Pork Marinade makes terrific shishkabobs.

PORK MARINADE

2 lbs. pork cubes
¾ cup wine vinegar
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup pineapple juice concentrate
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon salt

Simmer all ingredients 15 minutes. Pour marinade over cubes of pork, cover and refrigerate overnight. Turn meat or stir once or twice. When ready to cook, thread pork cubes and vegetables on skewers. Broil about 20 to 30 minutes, or until pork cubes are done. Brush often with the marinade. Serves 6. Use vegetables and fruits to suit your own tastes, such as canned sweet potatoes, green pepper, small whole onions, pineapple chunks, zucchini squash. Choose vegetables and fruits that will combine well with the flavor of the marinade.
